William Powers, a saloon keeper of St. Louis, who was convicted of receiving part of $8000 stolen from the home of a gypsy in St. Louis, and whose sentence was confirmed by the Supreme Court, last February, received a commutation. His release was recommended by Senator Mike Kinney, William J. Brennan and Arthur J. Donnelly.

The nail upon the finger was almost torn out and had to be removed by Dr. A. G. Wichmann of 1624 Jefferson avenue.

The Mayor said he was told by the physician that it would be a year before a new nail is grown and that it would be necessary to keep his hand in a sling several weeks.

The funeral of Thelma was held Monday afternoon. The other two were buried this afternoon. The mother and her youngest child contracted the disease from the others, physicians state.

Officials say the launch may have been entering during prohibited hours or the forts may have taken that method of warning the ship against mine fields in the harbor.

These officials who regard the inclusion of the launch in the list of ships as a violation of the 1907 convention, say Ambassador Morgenthau's reports of internal conditions in Turkey since the Ottoman empire joined the dual alliance in the war upon the entente Powers convinced officials here it would be well to have both ships remain in the Mediterranean.

note to the American Consul-General which he intended for the information of the French and British Governments, declaring that for every Muslim killed in a bombardment of any open and fortified port, three British or French subjects would be put to death, and added that he could not take the responsibility for any uprising against Christians which might follow such an event.

It was pointed out at the time that bombardment of any open and fortified town was unlikely, as it is prohibited by The Hague convention.

Those Turkish officials who remain at the embassy here were confident that if the Tennessee had been fired upon it was the act of some local official which would quickly be taken up by the Constantinople Government. Further than calling for inquiries from other American officials in the vicinity, it appeared that Washington was awaiting further reports from the Tennessee herself before proceeding. It became known also that England and France were asking their commanders in the Mediterranean for information of the incident.

May Not Have Been Unfriendly.

The theory of officials here is that Capt. Decker had been ashore at Smyrna to pay his respects to Consul-General Horton, and that the Consul, who had returned the visit, was being taken back to Smyrna when the launch was fired upon. It was pointed out that in making a visit to Smyrna the ordinary procedure for the Tennessee would be to anchor outside the harbor, and send a launch ashore. Another view is that the firing may not have been intended as an unfriendly act, but merely as a warning that the port was closed. That is said to be a usual form of notifying a foreign vessel that a port is closed when other notification has not been made. The cruiser North Carolina is at Beirut on the coast of Asia Minor about 500 miles from Smyrna.

Secretary Daniels immediately notified Acting Secretary Lansing of the firing and that official immediately called upon Ambassador Morgenthau at Constantinople to make a complete investigation. Communication, however, between Constantinople and the United States is very slow. The latest message from Morgenthau, received yesterday, was dated Nov. 12. It made no mention of any disturbances.

As Capt. Decker's report mentioned the fact that anxiety had been felt for the safety of the American consulate at Smyrna, the opinion was expressed in some quarters that the launch might have been taking a guard from the Tennessee to protect the consulate and such Americans and other foreigners who would naturally seek asylum in that quarter.

Artillery Duels in Belgium and Along Aisne; Allies Repulse Attacks

PARIS, Nov. 18.—The war office statement, given out in Paris this afternoon, says that yesterday saw numerous artillery duels and some isolated infantry attacks, all of which were repulsed. The text of the communication follows:

The day of yesterday passed much as did the day before. There were numerous artillery exchanges and some isolated attacks on the part of the enemy's infantry, all of which were repulsed.

From the North Sea to the Lys the front was subjected to a fairly active bombardment, particularly at Neuport and to the east and to the south of Ypres.

Near Bixchoote, the souaves, charging with the bayonet, brilliantly took possession of a forest which had been disputed between the enemy and ourselves for three days.

To the south of Ypres an offensive movement on the part of the enemy's infantry was repulsed by our troops. The English army also maintained its front.

From Arras to the Oise there is nothing new to report. In the region of Craonne our artillery on several occasions secured the advantage over the batteries of the enemy.

The bombardment of Rheims has continued. From Rheims to the Argonne there is nothing new to report. In the region of St. Mihiel, in spite of counter attacks by the Germans, we have retained in our possession the western part of the village of Chauvencourt.

In Alsace, the landwehr battalions sent into the region of Sainte-Marie-Aux-Mines, have had to be taken out for the reason that they lost one-half of their effective strength. The battle in Flanders is becoming more and more restricted in the area between Ypres and the Lys. The flooded country has extended until it now reaches well south of Ypres. In addition, the rainy season, so long in these flat countries, has now set in, transforming the fields into swamps, as the admirable drainage system has not been working for three months.

The region of the Somme is in a state of the most complete inactivity and the conditions evidence the hardness of the Germans, who have been able to maintain their armies in a country the soil of which is nothing but liquid, and where the villages which might afford the only shelter have been destroyed.

The allies have behind them the rich country of Northern France, well supplied with excellent roads and railways. The Germans are directing their energies to forcing passages between Dixmude and Bixchoote. A violent cannonade, the customary preparation for an infantry attack in force, raged all day yesterday.

Simultaneously, the Germans appear

Russians Advance Near Soldau Where Battle Has Raged Constantly Four Days

PARIS, Nov. 18.—A dispatch received here from Petrograd by the Havas Agency, says:

"A terrific battle of unexampled violence has been proceeding for four days around Soldau. The commanding has been maintained all day. The Russians are endeavoring at any cost to avenge their recent check at Soldau, and are throwing themselves at the Germans with incredible fury. They have carried position after position by assault, in spite of the infernal fire of the Germans."

"The Germans are offering a most energetic resistance, and their fighting is alternately offensive and defensive."

"In spite of the torrential rains, which have turned the ground into a quagmire, the Russians are advancing."

"They have captured 10 big cannons, none of them damaged."

Germans Fall Back All Along East Prussian Line.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 18.—An official communication issued by the Russian general headquarters yesterday, says: "In East Prussia the enemy is falling back along the whole front from Suifonsen and Angerburg, while continuing to head the passages in the Masurian Lakes."

"On the front between the Vistula and Warta rivers (in Russian Poland), the fighting continues, taking the character of a great battle."

"There are important German forces in Galicia. We have reached the Austrian rear guards in the region of Dukla and the passage of Ulok."

A dispatch received here from Marmaritsa, on the Austro-Rumanian frontier, declares that further fighting is going on in the northern part of Crown land of Bukovina. The Russian troops are described as victorious. As they advance the Austrians are fleeing in great disorder.

Przemysl, besieged by Russians, is Provisionally for a Year.

BERLIN, via the Havas and London, Nov. 18.—According to a statement given

Calais, Boulogne and Dunkirk and would be gathering forces for an attack on La Bassée, with the object of forcing their way through to Bethune and Haecrouck, important railway junctions, the possessions of which would give them command of four railways to enable them to cut off the whole left wing of the allies.

BERLIN, via London, Nov. 18.—An official communication issued today by German general headquarters, says:

"Fighting in West Flanders continues and the situation on the whole remains unchanged."

"In the forest of Argonne our attacks continue successfully. French sorties to the south of Verdun were repulsed. An attack was made against our forces, which had moved forward on the western bank of the river Meuse, near St. Mihiel, and although it was originally successful for the enemy, it broke down completely later on."

"Our attack to the southeast of Ciry compelled the French to surrender some of their positions. The Chateau Chailillon was stormed and taken by our troops."

"New battles have developed in Poland in the region north of Lodz, but no decision yet has been reached."

"To the southeast of Soldau (East Prussia) the enemy has been forced to retreat in the direction of Miawa. Upon the extreme western wing a strong Russian cavalry force, which we defeated Nov. 16 and Nov. 17, has been driven back through Tilkallen."

out in Vienna, the fortress of Przemyśl, now being besieged by the Russians, is provisioned for twelve months.

Austrians Take Russian Defenses North of Cracow.

AMSTERDAM, via London, Nov. 18.—An official statement issued at Vienna under date of Nov. 17, says:

"Advancing yesterday from the neighborhood of Cracow, our troops took the foremost lines of defense of the enemy on the north frontier. In the region of Wolbrom and Filica (Southern Poland) the Russians only came within range of our artillery. The enemy's infantry was everywhere repulsed. One of our regiments captured 500 prisoners. The German victory at Kutno is already producing its effect on the general situation."

Germans Position in Poland Favorable Fall of Belgrade Near.

BERLIN, Nov. 18, via The Havas and London.—An official war bulletin given out in Berlin, sets forth that the operations on the eastern front are proceeding favorably. The Germans apparently are using their victory at Wloclawek to the greatest advantage. The Russian armies defeated near Lipno are today probably in the vicinity of Plock and the forces defeated at Wloclawek are near Kutno and Leszczyn.

GET RID OF HUMORS AND AVOID SICKNESS

Humors in the blood cause internal derangements that affect the whole system, as we know from boils and other eruptions, and are responsible for the readiness with which many people contract disease.

New Emden to Be Built With an Iron Cross on Her Bow

BERLIN, via London, Nov. 18.—The Emperor has sent the following reply to the Town Council of Emden, which had telegraphed some particulars of the loss of the cruiser Emden:

"My cordial thanks for your telegram of sympathy upon the sad, but heroic end of my cruiser Emden. The brave ship in her last fight against a stronger foe, earned new laurels for the German naval colors. A new and stronger Emden will be built on whose bow an iron cross will be affixed to commemorate the great victory of the Emden."

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Another tribute to the gallantry of Capt. von Muller of the German cruiser Emden is contained in a letter received by a Glasgow woman from her son, who is a member of the crew of the steamer Kabinga, which was captured by the Emden in the Bay of Bengal. The letter says:

"The Emden captured the Kabinga in the Bay of Bengal, but when Capt. von Muller learned that our skipper's wife and children were aboard he presented the ship to the lady, remarking to the skipper: 'You can inform your owners that, as far as they are concerned, the Kabinga has been seized and sunk.'"

The bulletin goes on to say, it will be of the greatest importance for the German troops from the region of Soldau to make further progress against the right wing of the main Russian army. The Russians intend to retire behind the Vistula, such a retreat, considering the extremely bad conditions of the roads, would be most difficult; consequently, the Russians probably will prefer to make a definite stand when the German and Austrian forces attack.

The papers of Berlin declare again today that the fall of Belgrade, Serbia, is imminent.

VIENNA, via Amsterdam to London, Nov. 18.—An official dispatch received here last evening said:

"In the Vajevdo district, where our army commanders have arrived, order has been restored. The town has suffered much from the Serbian soldiers."

CAPTAIN TELLS OF LOSS OF 2 BRITISH SHIPS IN BATTLE

Flames Mounted 200 Feet After Explosion on Good Hope Off Chilean Coast.

FIGHT WAS IN TWILIGHT

"It Is Our Unanimous Wish to Meet Enemy Again," Says Glasgow Commander.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—The Admiralty issued last night a report from Capt. John Luce of the British light cruiser Glasgow on the battle with a German squadron Nov. 1 off the Chilean coast.

The Glasgow, which left Coronel on the morning was advised by Rear Admiral Sir Christopher Cradock, commander of the British squadron, that the enemy's ships were to the northward. Toward evening the Glasgow sighted smoke and reported to Rear Admiral Cradock. The British fleet formed in line ahead, the Good Hope leading with the Monmouth, Glasgow and Otranto following.

The enemy had turned south and were also in single line ahead, the Scharnhorst and Gneisenau leading. Admiral Cradock signaled the Canopus: "I am going to attack the enemy."

Jammed Wireless Signals.

"The enemy was at that time 15,000 yards away," says the report, "and maintained this range, at the same time jamming the wireless signals. The sun was setting. Immediately behind the British ships and while it remained above the horizon the British had the advantage in light, but the range was too great."

When the sun had set and visibility conditions were such that the British ships were all shot against the afterglow, and falling light made the enemy difficult to see.

"The Germans opened fire at 7 o'clock at 12,000 yards, followed in quick succession by the British. The growing darkness and heavy spray of the sea made firing difficult, particularly from the main decks of the Good Hope and Monmouth."

"The enemy, firing salvoes, got the range quickly and their third salvo caused an outbreak of fire on the fore part of both ships, which were constantly on fire until 7:45 in the evening. At 7:50 an immense explosion occurred on the Good Hope amidships, the flames reaching 200 feet high. Total destruction must have followed."

Fired at Flashes of Guns.

"It was now quite dark. Both sides continued firing at the flashes of the opposing guns. The Monmouth was badly down by the bow and turned away to get her stern to the sea, signaling the Glasgow to that effect."

"At 8:30 the Glasgow signaled to the Monmouth: 'The enemy is following us,' but received no reply."

"Under the rising moon the enemy's ships could be seen approaching and as the Glasgow could render the Monmouth no assistance, she proceeded at full speed to avoid destruction. At 8:50 we lost sight of the enemy. At 9:30 we observed flashes of fire, which were doubtless the final attack on the Monmouth."

"Nothing could have been more admirable than the conduct of the officers and men throughout, although it was most trying to receive a great volume of fire without a chance of adequately returning it. All kept perfectly cool, there was no wild firing and discipline was the same as at battle practice. When the target ceased to be visible the gun layers spontaneously ceased fire."

"The serious reverse sustained has entirely failed to impair the spirit of the officers and the ship's company and it is our unanimous wish to meet the enemy again as soon as possible."

Canopus Evidently Near.

A statement issued by the British Admiralty Nov. 6 concerning the sea fight off Chile said the battleship Canopus was not present at the time of the battle. Two days before, the admiralty had said it could not accept the unofficial reports of the sinking of the Monmouth and Good Hope as the Canopus, which had been specially sent to strengthen Rear Admiral Cradock's squadron and which would have given him a decided superiority over the Germans, was not mentioned in them.

It is possible that the German ships, in addition to jamming the wireless of the British cruisers in the fight, also put out of commission the telegraphic apparatus of the Canopus.

The cruiser Glasgow now is at Rio de Janeiro for repairs.

How Germany Is Trimming England's Fleet to Her Size as Von Bernhardt Said She Would

GEN. VON BERNHARDI, whose uncanny book, "Germany and the Next War," so accurately foretold the alignment of the present conflict and the plan of the German operations on land, is being vindicated equally as precisely in his outline of the naval phases of the war.

The loss to England of the great 25,000-ton superdreadnought, the Audacious, emphasizes the German naval policy of "watchful waiting," while her enemies' fighting sea force is being "trimmed down to her size."

On this point, Gen. Bernhardt wrote: "We must, therefore, as the general position of the world leads us to believe—reckon on the probability of a naval war with England and shall then have to fight against an overwhelming superiority. It will be so great that we cannot hope for a long time to take the offensive against the English fleet. But we must contemplate becoming its master in one way or another."

We must endeavor to meet the enemy's guns. An engagement once begun must be fought out to the end. An appreciable damage can be inflicted on the enemy only if a bold attack on him is made."

Though with the exception of a few isolated units, like the Emden, the Gneisenau, the Karlsruhe and other fast cruisers of their class, the German fleet has been blockaded and practically bottled since the war began, the remorseless process of trimming the British fleet down till the German navy can become its master has been going steadily on. The loss in German tonnage to date in warships has been 55,167 tons on every half-pint glass of losses against England's 140,700.

The actual number of vessels Germany has lost is 21 against England's 19.

But with two exceptions, the lost German ships have been permitted to England on the other hand has lost several large cruisers and one great battleship.

Of the British losses four cruisers—the Hogue, Cressy, Aboukir and Hawke, and the gunboat Niger have been torpedoed by submarines. Six have been sunk by German mines and four have been destroyed by shell fire. Only two German ships have been torpedoed and sunk by English submarines, while but one has been sunk by a mine. Fourteen, among them the German cruisers caught on the high seas near the Colonial ports to which they were assigned far from the Kiel base, have been sunk by English shell fire.

It is true that, with the exception of the Audacious, the British battle line strength has not been weakened materially, despite all the losses. But neither has the German line been damaged. But the psychological effect is tremendous. The Germans are growing bolder with every success, while the disasters to Britain have had a demoralizing effect on her people, who had expected their overwhelmingly superior navy to wipe the Germans off the sea in the early days of the war. The depressing effect the continuing reports of disasters have on the English people is emphasized by the fact that the admiralty has been permitted to wipe the Germans off the sea in the early days of the war. The depressing effect the continuing reports of disasters have on the English people is emphasized by the fact that the admiralty has been permitted to wipe the Germans off the sea in the early days of the war.

The war is yet young, and Germany can continue its policy of dealing disasters surreptitiously to her foe while her own navy remains in the House of Commons today, in reply to a question, that the total British naval casualties to date were:

Officers killed, 222; wounded, 37; missing, 1. Men killed, 3455; wounded, 423; missing, 1.

This list, the First Lord said, did not include the missing officers and men in the Royal Naval Division at Antwerp and on the British cruiser Goscwicke sunk by a mine off the Chilean coast, which totaled 1000 and 875 respectively. This would bring to total casualties to 6223.

Russia May Abandon German Invasion Unless Allies Gain

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Press dispatches from Copenhagen say it is reported from Petrograd that sentiment in Russia is beginning to favor concentration of strength against the Turks and that a virtual abandonment of the invasion of East Prussia may come if Russia's allies have not cleared France of the Germans by the first of the year. Russia would have much more to gain by the conquest of Turkey and the capture of Constantinople than in any invasion of Germany. Recent Turkish victories in the Caucasus have aroused sentiment for the annihilation of the Turk. It is impossible as long as vast armies are maintained in Galicia and on the German frontier.

Russian authorities are pointing to the fact that, despite the invasion of Austria and Germany by the Czar's troops, the French and British have been unable to drive the invader from France, though the Kaiser weakened his forces in the west to combat the Russians.

DELEGATES SEEK EXCUSES TO KILL THE PARKWAY BILL

Committee Did Not Report Measure Last Night, Giving as the Reason a Failure to Get a Quorum—Another Meeting Is Set for Friday Evening.

STIFEL FIGHTS FOR BASEBALL GROUNDS

Improvement Would Slice Off Federal League Park—St. Louis University Head States Objections—Arguments for Parkway.

While members of the House of Delegates were learning the myriads of wireless telegraph and the process of recording earthquake shocks on the seismograph at St. Louis University, yesterday afternoon, they were communicating by a method less rapid than the wireless intelligence that they were plotting to kill the parkway bill.

Prof. George Rueppel of the university staff demonstrated to the Delegates that wireless communication was instantaneous—that when he opened his key the sound could be heard instantly anywhere within the 30-mile transmitting territory of the radiograph. At the same time the Delegates were demonstrating that, while they had been leading the public to believe for several weeks that they were going to vote for the parkway bill, they were really seeking excuses to defeat it.

Delegates Meet Otto P. Stifel. It was expected that the Public Improvements Committee would report the bill at the meeting of the House of Delegates last night. The excuse was given by Chairman Scully that he could not get a quorum of the committee and that no report could be made. The committee will meet Friday, according to announcement made by Scully last night.

All members of the House of Delegates were invited by Chairman Scully to make a tour of inspection of the parkway district yesterday afternoon. About half the members accompanied Stifel starting from the city hall, the Delegates met Otto P. Stifel in the committee rooms of the House.

Opposed to the Parkway. Stifel told the Delegates he was opposed to the parkway because it provided for cutting 70 feet from the Federal League baseball park at Grand and Laclede avenues. He said he was not opposed to the parkway as a whole; that he thought it would be a fine thing for the city to have a central parkway, but that the condemnation of a 70-foot strip of land on the west side of the park would ruin it for baseball purposes.

After hearing Stifel's arguments, the Delegates drove out to St. Louis University and viewed the site of the proposed parkway from a third-story window.

The Rev. Bernard Otting, S. J., president of the university, made an appeal to the Delegates to kill the parkway bill.

"If you pass that bill," he said, "you will drive the University into bankruptcy. We could not afford to pay the special taxes they would be assessed against us as beneficiaries."

"The parkway would undoubtedly be a very beautiful thing, and the university, standing at the head of it, would have a beautiful outlook over the city. But it would not increase our revenues one cent. We are able to maintain the university only because the teachers receive no salaries. We have been saving $5 years to make the university what it is. Our only revenue is derived from the tuition paid us by the boys who attend the university."

Argument for Parkway. Delegate Monahan, who favors the parkway bill, made the argument to Prof. Otting that within a few years, under present conditions, the neighborhood would become so undesirable that the University would have to seek new quarters. But with the parkway built, Monahan asserted, the university would have a permanently desirable home.

As the parkway bill originated with the Board of Public Service, it must be accepted as a whole or rejected as a whole by the Municipal Assembly. It is not subject to amendment.

Delegates Find Faults. Delegates found many faults with the parkway plan. Delegate Nathan Hall of the Twenty-first Ward, as spokesman for Stifel, thought it would be a shame to intrude upon the Federal League Park. He was also opposed to building the entire parkway at one time. It ought to be built out to Beaumont street as a starter, and then we could see how it would work, he said.

Delegate Grierson of the Seventeenth Ward, who owns five pieces of property that would be assessed for the construction of the parkway, asserted that he was decidedly in favor of the bill, and was willing to pay whatever assessments were levied against him.

"For the opening of the driveway from Locust street into Lindell boulevard at Channing avenue our property on Locust street was assessed $40 a front foot, or $390 in all. I figure that the value of the property has been increased $10,000 by this improvement," Grierson said.

"Before this driveway was planned, there was no demand for property on Locust street. As soon as it was assured automobile companies began buying land, and values have increased rapidly."

"I am willing to pay my share of the special assessments because I am satisfied that the building of the parkway will improve the value of every parcel." Chairman Scully did not commit himself on the parkway bill, although he has given interviews declaring that he favored it. Yesterday he was able to find many flaws in the plan. As thought the parkway, west of Jefferson avenue ought to take in the block between Laclede and Lawton avenues, instead of between Lawton and Pine street. He also objected to some small grass plots along the street railway tracks at Grand avenue, and declared that the proposed automobile driveway through the middle of the parkway from Beaumont street to Twelfth street would ruin these blocks for small parks.

Notes Loud Opposition. Delegate Michael Whalen of the Twenty-sixth Ward, who was one of the cogs in the McCarthy-Dallagher machine which obstructed free bridge legislation for many months, very loudly and demonstratively proclaimed his opposition to the parkway bill.

Although no members of the House of Delegates have complained of deafness, Whalen persisted in shouting in a very loud voice every few minutes that he would resign rather than vote for the parkway bill. The only reason he gave for his opposition was that the property of his friends in the vicinity of Broadway and Franklin would be "confiscated" to build the parkway.

Whalen also persisted in interrupting Delegate Monahan, who was trying to convince Prof. Otting that St. Louis University would be benefited by the parkway, with the remark that, if negroes now living in the district between Grand avenue and Twelfth street, were forced to move they would go in droves to the Twentieth ward, which Monahan represents, and make it a Republican ward.

Position of St. Louis U. Prof. Otting said the university had no endowment at present and that it had to pay $4000 for the opening of the driveway from Locust street into Lindell boulevard. He did not mention the $16,000,000 Campbell estate, which will finally revert to the University as an endowment. The university and St. Francis Xavier church together own more than 300 feet frontage on Grand avenue, between Lindell and Laclede avenues.

Members of the City Plan Commission will be invited to appear before the House Committee on Public Improvements.

Three weddings have aroused unusual interest in the Tri-Cities in the last week. In each instance the principals are members of prominent families and in one case the ceremony was secretly performed in defiance of a time-honored superstition.

Miss Leora Keown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Keown, of Granite City, persuaded A. S. Keevil, an employee of the Bell Telephone Co. of St. Louis, to advance the date of their wedding to last Friday in order that they might be married on Friday, the thirteenth day of the month. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Williamson, pastor of the Third Baptist Church of St. Louis, at the church.

Miss Keown's parents were making all arrangements for the wedding, which was originally set for this week. They were informed of the wedding yesterday, when their daughter told them she was going to housekeeping at 4120 Cook avenue, St. Louis.

Miss Keown's father is a contractor, residing at 2126 G Street, Granite City. The wedding of Miss Yvonne Michel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Michel, of 226 S. State street, Granite City, to Charles C. Guth, a contractor and builder, this morning at St. Joseph's church, was a neighborhood romance which had its inception three years ago, when Guth came to Granite City to reside, making his home with a sister, directly across the street from Miss Michel's home. The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a home in Granite City, which Guth built.

Miss Edna Kohl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kohl, pioneer residents of Venice, will be married tomorrow to one member of the committee besides himself, Delegate Ford, attended the meeting. The other members are Delegates Butler, Melsner, Byrne, Moog, and Ebrecht.

OYEZ, OYEZ, JUNIOR JUVENILE COURT IS NOW IN SESSION

Four Cases Tried at Opening of Tribunal and Defendants Are Dismissed.

PLAN IS JUDGE HENNING'S

Small Infractions of Law Tried at Neighborhood House, 817 North 19th.

The first session of the Junior Juvenile Court, planned by Judge Hennings of the Juvenile Court to handle minor infractions of laws by boys without taking them into court, was held last night at Neighborhood House, 817 North Nineteenth street.

The plan includes the appointment of boys of the neighborhood as officers of the court, to bring in the offenders and serve as prosecuting witnesses. In accordance with his announced plan, Judge Hennings had sitting with him three young men as Associate Judges.

One of the requests of Judge Hennings is that the names of the boys shall not be made public. Judge Hennings expects that such punishment as it is necessary for the Junior Juvenile Court to impose will be orders to wash mother's dishes, scrub a floor, etc. Cases, in which the Junior Court fails to correct the fault, will be taken to the Juvenile Court in the Municipal Courts Building.

The two rooms, used as the court, were crowded with the officers and defendants. None of the boys failed to appear. Some of them came accompanied by their father or mother. One of the boys, who was with his mother, was mistaken for his twin brother and dismissed. His mother promised to have the twin at the next sitting of the court.

Judge Hennings Opens Court. The court was opened by a speech by Judge Hennings, who told the boys the court was not a joke. He said that when he was a boy and left school to work, he studied law at night, and that other boys could grasp some such opportunity. The officers were not "snitches," he said, but merely were doing their duty.

Howard Billman, manager of the shop and factory department of the Church Federation, made a short talk.

The court was brought to order by Probation Officers Leo McCarthy and Robert A. Roessel and Attorney James H. Zipp, the three acting as Associate Judges. The first case called was that of Freddie S. and Guy M., 13 and 14 years old, respectively, who were charged jointly with destruction of property by pulling boards off a sign at Nineteenth and Wash streets.

They said the boards were lying in a vacant lot and that they were building a small shed against the cold weather. The father of Guy said he was a good boy and stayed at home. Freddie said he thought he was doing no wrong. Both boys were discharged on their promises to be good.

The case of Walter S. then was called. He was charged with "lagging" pennies. He told the Judges he was not "lagging," but just trying to see how close he could come to the wall. He said that he sold newspapers and could not afford to lose pennies as they were needed badly at home.

The Judges let him go on his promise not to do it again.

Mother Comes With Boy.

The next case was that of Oscar G., who came with his mother. He was on trial for hopping street cars. He told the Judges he was doing no wrong. The mother of the boy said that his twin brother Austin had admitted to her that he, Austin, was hopping street cars. She said she did not bring him, because he was not "summoned." She promised to have him at the next session of the court.

The last boy tried was Willie E. for throwing tin cans through a window in a residence on North Nineteenth street. He denied it at first, but when instructed by his mother to tell the truth, and after several of the officers, who were with him at the time, told about it, he admitted his guilt. His mother said he was a very good boy and that he had taken care of his little sister ever since she was 4 months old.

He promised to mind his mother and be good and the Judges allowed him to go home.

Court was then adjourned to Tuesday, Nov. 24, at 7 p. m.

C. B. & O. ALLEGED TO OWN PARALLEL LINE

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 18.—A complaint was filed with the Public Service Commission today against the Quincy, Omaha & Kansas City Railroad, charging that the road is owned and managed by the Burlington and that the roads are parallel and competing lines from Quincy, Ill., to Kansas City, Mo.

The United States Supreme Court examined the Q. O. & K. C. from observance of the 5-cent passenger rate law, because it was shown by the management of the road that the rate would be confiscatory. If the charge in the complaint filed should be proved, the condition on which the Supreme Court judgment was based would be changed materially.

AUTO IN FATAL WRECK SPEEDING, WITNESSES SAY

Charles Reinhardt Jr. Inquest Adjourned to Get Testimony of Four Injured.

THREE WOMEN WERE HURT

One Witness Says Machine Was Running 50 Miles an Hour When It Hit Street Car.

Inquest into the death of Charles Reinhardt Jr., 20 years old, who was killed in a collision between an automobile in which he was riding and a northbound Jefferson avenue car, at Utah street, Saturday midnight, was begun today by Deputy Coroner Furlong.

After some evidence had been heard indicating that the auto was going at great speed at the time of the accident, the inquest was adjourned to permit the taking of the testimony of three young women and a man seriously injured in the collision, who are now in St. John's Hospital. They are Vera O'Hara, 17, of 1540 Valley avenue; Anna Smith, 17, of 584 Hobart avenue; Bernice Vlahos, 17, of 524 Chatham avenue, and C. W. Lambert of 5330 Theodosia avenue.

L. R. McGill, motorman, and Arthur Lubke, son of G. W. Lubke of 629 Berlin avenue, owner of the automobile, are under common law bond to await the result of the inquest.

Frank Levens, a driver, living at 3301 Salena street, testified that while driving in Utah street two blocks from the scene of the accident, two automobiles passed him. He figured they were going at a speed of about 30 miles an hour. A few minutes later he heard the crash of the collision and on reaching the corner recognized the wrecked automobile as one of the cars which had passed him, he said.

Charles Fogg of 514 North Leonard avenue, who was on the platform of the car, testified that the automobile came like a flash and struck the forward part of the car. He said there were no lights on the automobile. He estimated that the street car was going at a rate of about 20 miles an hour.

The motorman declined to testify on advice of counsel and Lubke did not attend the inquest, but was represented by counsel.

GETTING GRAY? USE SAGE TEA TO RESTORE NATURAL COLOR OF YOUR HAIR

Says Sage Tea when Mixed with Sulphur Darkens the Hair Just Beautifully and Removes Dandruff.

Hair that loses its color and luster, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair, says a well-known local pharmacist. Our grand-mother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful and even today this simple preparation has no equal. Millions of women and men, who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive use only Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Nowadays we are not bothered with the task of gathering the sage leaves and the mussy mixing at home. Simply ask at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of the ready-to-use preparation, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." Customers like this best because it dyes so naturally; so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it contains ingredients which take off dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. No, it isn't a dye or even like it. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with the liquid and apply it to the hair with "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two it is restored to its natural color. What delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that besides beautifully darkening the hair they say it brings back the gloss and luster and gives it an appearance of abundance.—ADV.

INVESTIGATION OF GAMBLING ORDERED BY ALTON MAYOR

Warrant Issued for Charles Conley Following Exposure of Game by Post-Dispatch.

Following an exposure in yesterday's Post-Dispatch of open gambling conditions in Alton, Ill., Mayor J. C. Faustich ordered Chief of Police Lynn to investigate conditions and have issued a warrant against Charles Conley, the alleged proprietor of a gambling house over 105 West Second street, where a Post-Dispatch reporter found a roulette wheel and a craps game running. Lynn had the warrant issued, and said that it would be served immediately upon Conley.

Mayor Faustich said that he was shocked when he read the account of gambling in his town. He said that he thought after the recent investigation carried on under the leadership of the Rev. C. W. Reese of the Unitarian Church, that all the gambling houses had been cleaned out. He said that no one had "ever gotten permission" from him to run such places, and that he did not favor gambling.

After the Post-Dispatch reached Alton yesterday, and the police read of the open gambling, they immediately put the "lid" on, even prohibiting "Kelly pool" being played in the billiard parlors.

During the past nine months the Woman's Vigilant Improvement Association, under the leadership of the Rev. C. W. Reese, pastor of the Unitarian Church, has waged a ceaseless campaign against the gambling element in the city.

Four alleged gamblers were indicted at the October term of the grand jury. Three indictments charged that three gambling houses were being conducted within a block of the police station.

GEN. WOTHERSPOON URGES A STANDING ARMY OF 205,000

Retiring Chief of Staff Recommends Reserve Force of 300,000 Be Provided For.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Declaring it would be impossible to defend the Panama Canal and American territorial possessions against attack with present or proposed garrisons unless they could be rapidly reinforced, Major-General Wotherspoon, retiring Chief of Staff, in his report today, recommended the increase of the army to a strength of 205,000 enlisted men. He proposed that that force be augmented through a system of reserves until there was created a mobile strength of 500,000 first-line troops equipped for a six months' campaign.

Major-General Wotherspoon said there was need for more forces to protect rear approaches to American coast defenses and those points not covered by fortresses and urged that the organized militia be developed to a strength of 300,000 men.

"It is manifest," Wotherspoon asserted, "that the great waterway of the Panama Canal cannot be protected against the operations of a first-class military power by the present or proposed garrison we contemplated placing there, without the power and ability to reinforce it rapidly from the United States."

"That an effective defense against an enterprising enemy in the Philippines could be made with a deficiency of 33 per cent of the manning details of the coast defenses of Manila and Subic Bay and with a mobile force of a little over 7000 American troops supplemented by less than 6000 Philippine scouts, is manifestly impossible; that we can retain our valuable territory of Alaska in its isolated position against an enemy with a military power by placing there a garrison of less than 500 men verges on the ridiculous unless we have ample force at home to occupy that territory in the very earliest stages of an impending conflict. As regards the Hawaiian Islands all military persons will recognize that the proposed garrison in this possession is far below what it should be to meet a serious attack."

Outlining his view of the army's first line requirements, Major-General Wotherspoon said:

"Careful consideration of our needs would indicate that a deficiency and necessity for having at all times available at home, and in addition to the necessities in our foreign possessions in the first line of our military establishment a mobile force of at least 500,000 thoroughly trained and equipped fighting men with adequate supplies for the operation of this force for a period of at least six months. This is a conclusion that seems to have been reached by all those who have given careful consideration of this question. It is also agreed that we should have as a second line a thoroughly equipped and trained force of organized militia of not less than 300,000 men properly proportioned as to its staff and several arms with stores and supplies necessary for its operation in the field for a like period."

Wotherspoon outlined the plan through which he would double the strength of the regular army and create the reserve. The enlisted men would serve a short term with the colors then pass into the reserve for periods of five or more years, being at all times under obligation to respond in case of national need.

"Assuming," the report continues, "the adoption of a short term of enlistment—say, three years—for the passage of the men thoroughly trained in the school of the regular or standing army into the reserves and that men so trained should not be held on the first reserve for a longer period than five years, it would appear that the size of the regular or standing army be used as a school for the training of reservists should be about 205,000 enlisted men."

"If from such an army, organized on a basis of three years' training, we discharge yearly that increment below the charge of sergeant which had completed its three years' training, we would have, with due allowance for deaths, etc., in the first year of its complete operation, an army of 262,700 (205,000 plus 57,700 reserves); in the second year, an army of 322,400 (205,000 plus 117,400 reserves); in the third year, an army of 382,100 (205,000 plus 177,100 reserves); in the fourth year, an army of 441,800 (205,000 plus 236,800 reserves); in the fifth year, an army of 498,500 (205,000 plus 293,500 reserves)."

"After this the army would be maintained at the last figure, and in addition there would be accumulating trained men in the second reserve at the rate of about 55,000 each year."

Major-General Wotherspoon contended the proposed system would be economical inasmuch as the reserve officers and men would receive pay only during their active service and on being called to the colors. He added that he saw no reason why the same principle as to reserve should not be applied to the organized militia. In that connection, however, he says, "It must be admitted that unless there be a material change in the laws governing the organized militia which will bring about a greater reliance upon and an increase in the control by the general Government, that branch of our military establishment cannot be regarded and depended upon as a reliable force."

PERFECTS RECEIVER FOR AN OVER-SEA WIRELESS PHONE

Inventor Peter Hewitt Says He Is Now Putting Final Touches on Sending Device.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Peter Cooper Hewitt, inventor of the mercury vapor electric lamp and of other practical electrical appliances that have found large use in industry believes that he has about perfected a variation of the vacuum rectifier which will many times multiply the possibilities of wireless telegraphy and telephony. He has already perfected the receiving apparatus, and is putting the final touches on the sending part, which, he says, is producing excellent results even in its present imperfect state. Aside from its commercial uses, Hewitt thinks the new wireless telephone appliances would be very valuable for military purposes. The apparatus is not cumbersome and could be easily transported. With it the inventor believes it would be possible to so attune instruments that messages cannot be intercepted.

"The receiving apparatus has been in working condition for some time, but I am still adding improvements to it and it has not been commercialized," he said, indicating a glass tube with the blue light in it on a table across the room. "The Marconi people recently tried it out at their Glace Bay station, for it is applicable to wireless telegraphy or telephony and expressed themselves highly pleased."

"The sending apparatus is not yet quite completed, but I feel that it is safe to prophesy for it that when it is completed it will be possible to telephone directly to Europe from this country. This is because of the power of the instruments to pick up even the faintest current."

"As regards the use of the instruments for military purposes, there would be no possibility of an enemy catching messages sent from one war zone to another and spoken in plain English or French unless the enemy had precisely the same sort of an instrument and knew how to attune it to receive the message. But even though the enemy had the instrument and the required knowledge, he would be apt to get only a confused jumble of sounds and nothing better than the knowledge that some message was being sent, or by previous arrangement the operators could alter their current at stipulated moments—every word if they wanted to—and thus keep the intercepting instrument constantly out of tune."

"I shall start a wireless ticker system in this country as soon as practicable. Previous methods of transmitting news and statistics by wireless have been comparatively successful, but by this method it will be possible to insure far greater accuracy without such intricate apparatus and wireless conversations of short distances, such as between New York and Philadelphia will be common before long."

Peter Cooper Hewitt is about 33 years old and was educated at the Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, and at Columbia University.

How to Make Your Hair Beautiful

Tell Minutes' Home Treatment Works Wonders. Stops Falling Hair, Heals Scalp and Dandruff and Makes the Hair Soft, Brilliant, Lustrous and Fluffy.

Better than all the so-called "hair tonics" in the world is a simple old-fashioned home recipe consisting of one Bay Rum, Lavona (de compose) and a little Menthol Crystals. These three, mixed at home in a few minutes, work wonders with any scalp. Try it just one night and see. Get from your druggist 2 oz. Lavona, 6 oz. Bay Rum and 1/4 drachm Menthol Crystals. Dissolve the Crystals in the Bay Rum and pour in an 8-oz. bottle. Then add the Lavona, shake well and let it stand for an hour before using. Apply by putting a little of the mixture on a soft cloth. Draw this cloth slowly through the hair, taking just one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair and scalp of dirt, dust and excessive oil and makes the hair delightfully soft, lustrous and fluffy. To the hair from falling and to make it grow again, rub the lotion briskly into the scalp with the finger tips or a medium stiff brush. Apply night and morning for ten days and you cannot find a single loose or straggling hair. As tight as a vise. Dandruff will disappear and the hair will grow up again above. The prescription is very inexpensive and we know of nothing more effective and certain in its result.—ADV.

EASY WAY TO KEEP BABY'S SKIN HEALTHY

How to Heal Skin Eruptions and Prevent Their Return.

Very few babies grow to childhood without having some sort of skin trouble. It may be only chafing, scalding, or tooth rash. On the other hand, it may be the worst kind of itching eczema or ringworm.

When I find a little one suffering like that, I always advise the mother to do this: Bathe the sick skin with warm water and Resinol Soap, pat dry with a soft towel, and put on very gently a thin coating of Resinol Ointment. She can dust a little good talcum powder over the ointment if she likes. This almost never fails to give INSTANT relief and a few days' treatment generally heal the trouble. Resinol is the best way I know to keep baby's skin free from such irritations and eruptions. It is very pure, soothing and healing. All druggists sell Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. For free samples, write to Dept. 36-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

COMPLEXION RUINED BY PIMPLES

Itched and Burned Badly. Also Had Blackheads. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In Two Weeks Completely Well.

724 E. N. Ave., Olney, Ill.—"When my trouble first began I noticed little pimples coming on my face. They itched and burned so badly that I had to scratch them and that only made them worse. About a week later my face was so badly covered with pimples and blackheads that I was ashamed. My complexion was ruined. The pimples would sometimes bleed and fester. "I bought a box of Cuticura Soap and used it but without effect. I also bought some ——— and complexion cream but with the same poor result. One day I heard of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I decided to give them a trial. So I got a box of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment, washed my face with the Soap and applied the Ointment and in two weeks I was completely well." (Signed) Chas. E. McGinn, May 5, 1914.

TAILOR MURDERED, PACKED IN BARREL, LEFT UNDER BRIDGE

Body Identified as That of Gun Toter Living on East Side, New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The man who was murdered last night and then stuffed into a barrel and carried to a street under the Queensboro bridge, was identified today. He was Louis Macaulay, 31 years old, a tailor, who lived in that section of the Manhattan East Side, best known to the police as the home of gangsters and gunmen. He himself had served a sentence for carrying a pistol and detectives seeking to unravel the mystery of his death thought it was due to a feud between rival gangs.

A bullet wound was found in the heart of Macaulay.

The identification was made through a druggist's prescription found in his clothing.

The barrel, containing the body, was unloaded from a truck at 9 o'clock last night, rolled to the sidewalk and stood on end by two men who then drove away.

A woman, who had observed the men, looked into the barrel and saw the crumpled body of Macaulay.

The police agreed that the murder and the attempt to get rid of the body were similar in many respects to the famous "barrel murder" of some years ago, which followed a quarrel between Black Handers.

RIVER DESPERES COULD BE CLEANED UP AT SMALL COST

Clarification of Stream and the Parking of Its Banks for Eight Miles Important Steps in the Development of the City-Beautiful Plan.

THE transformation of River des Peres, unsightly, unsavory and unsanitary, into a clear stream linking eight miles of beautiful parks skirting the southern and western city limits, is one of the steps that must be taken by St. Louis in its progress toward the city beautiful. Less expense will attach to this improvement than probably any other that may be proposed, of consequence to the entire city. The city has gone a long way toward eliminating sewage from the Forest Park waterway, and steps have been taken toward the creation of a sanitary district authorized by a State act of 1906, by which the portions of the city and county that lie on the Des Peres watershed, will pay for its final improvement. Upon the creation of this district by a majority vote of the residents in the district, depends the execution of plans that have been developing since the days of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

George E. Kessler, the St. Louis landscape artist, who has designed the improvement of similar streams for other cities, began the study of River des Peres in 1903, and has evolved a plan in co-operation with city officials of every succeeding administration.

A Boulevard Cover.
The plan of Kessler, now in the hands of the City Plan Commission and the Public Service Board, provides for the covering of River des Peres, north of Forest Park, with a wide boulevard. Through Forest Park and following its present course with a few of the superfluous bends eliminated, Kessler would construct roadways on both sides of sufficient distances from the river banks to permit the creation of a parkway between the roads and the river. This treatment would be continued as far toward its confluence with the Mississippi at the southern city limits, as the presence of industrial establishments would permit.

With less volume in its milder moods, River des Peres may be made to rival the beautiful Charles River at Boston or the Schuylkill River at Philadelphia.

By proper treatment the now despoiled stream may assume the aspect along its entire course that now charms the eye in Forest Park, where overhanging trees and mossy banks set off its glitter.

To save expense, it has been proposed by city officials that Art Hill be pierced by a tunnel and River des Peres be led through it, instead of permitted to meander through every section of the park.

The city has yet to build a foul water sewer along this section of the stream, and it will cost $500,000 to build the sewer under the present river bed than to divert the stream through a tunnel at the southern side of the park, thus cutting off two miles or more of its extent. The city might build the sewer under Art Hill, and yet permit the storm water channel of the stream to remain where it is.

$200,000,000 Drainage Sewer.
The city has constructed, in the past three years, a great sewer along the lower courses of the stream from the Mississippi River to Lindenwood, on the western city limits, just south of Forest Park. The sewer is 10x12 feet in diameter, and is designed to carry off the foul water from the drainage district south of the park, which is rapidly being built up about the big industrial establishments along the Frisco, Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain Railroads.

The sewer cost $2,000,000 and is designed to fulfill all requirements for decades to come.

The foul water is carried out of the river channel north of Forest Park by a pipe sewer under the river bed from the city limits at Delmar boulevard to a point in Forest Park opposite the Union avenue entrance. A pumping station at this point transfers the flow to the Pine street sewer. The capacity of these pumps was doubled a year ago to meet increasing demands.

From the northern limits of Forest Park to Lindenwood, the open channel of River des Peres must carry all the storm water and foul water. Most of this stretch lies in Forest Park, where only storm water develops, but the stream is never clear and sanitary today, although vastly improved over the open sewer of a decade ago.

To perfect the stream it requires now that a sewer between Union avenue and Lindenwood be constructed, and the banks be prepared for the annual spring flood, except in the section north of Forest Park which is destined to become an attractive driveway.

Land Would Be Donated.
The creation of eight miles of parkway along the stream will cost only the expense of the roads on each side and the repairs to the river banks where required. The land for 200 feet or more on each side of the stream is valuable today because of the annual inundation and Walter H. Stevens, secretary of the City Plan Commission, predicts that most of it would be donated to the city or sanitary district for park purposes in order to improve the adjacent land of the owners. Such land as is not donated can be bought for $100 an acre, and Kessler estimates that about 700 acres would be devoted to the parkway.

For 200 yards or so from the junction with the Mississippi River, the channel should be widened for the convenience of the industrial plants, and the parkway would end west of Broadway at the southern city limits.

At the instance of the City Plan Commission, the Council and House of Delegates, a year ago, passed an ordinance authorizing a vote at the general election in November 1914, on the creation of a sanitary district consisting of the River des Peres watershed. The election was not held because the St. Louis County Court did not concur in time, although the plan was regarded favorably in the county.

The State law governing such districts, provides that they may be incorporated by a majority of the voters in the district, and the affairs of the district shall be administered by a board of trustees consisting of one member appointed by the Mayor of St. Louis, one by the County Court, and a third by the Circuit Court having jurisdiction over the major portion of the territory involved, which in this case would be the St. Louis County Circuit Court. The law limits special drainage taxes levied by the trustees to 1/4 of 1 percent of the assessed value of lands, for each year.

River des Peres drains about 47,000 acres, of which 3,000 are in St. Louis County, and 44,000 are in St. Louis. It traverses both communities, winding into St. Louis at Delmar boulevard, north of Forest Park, and crossing back into the county at Lindenwood, south of the park. It again enters the city to the south and meets the Mississippi River within the city limits.

'ON TRIAL' STIRRING MELODRAMA WITH A FILM SHOW EFFECT

Ripley Saunders, in New York, Finds It Solves Problem of Competing With "Movies."

By Ripley D. Saunders.
Dramatic Critic of the Post-Dispatch,
Who is in New York to see the Season's New Plays.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—It has remained for Elmer L. Reisenstein, until now an obscure young clerk in a New York law office, to teach the veteran dramatists of this country how to write an emotional "thriller" that shall outdraw the "movies" even with the handicap of being presented at 10 or 20 times the price of admission charged by the latter.

He has done this in "On Trial," which I have just seen at the Candler Theater, where every seat in the house was sold and long lines of eager would-be buyers were turned away from the box office with disappointment stamped on their faces in the biggest of big display type, so to speak, as they passed out into the winter night of a pale-sweet Gotham, their money rejected and their melodrama-hunger unmet.

Four notable factors have prevailed for the doing of such a deed—a vivid and singularly effective theatrical imagination; a daring disregard of all play-writing conventions supposed to control the shaping of plays; a revolving stage that keeps the story's action in movement with the swiftness of the "movies" themselves; and an uncommonly capable company so shrewdly cast that one may not easily point a finger at any individual character in the play and suggest its better placing in other hands.

This most widely audacious thing done by younger Mr. Reisenstein is that not only does he make his play tell a story covering a time period of 13 years' duration—in itself a serious hazard—but he insists that this story be told backward, beginning at the very end, ending at the very beginning. It took a brave playwright to do such a seemingly "fool" thing, and it took a still braver manager to see to produce the apparently "fool" thing and call it a play.

A Smashingly Successful Play.
The brave playwright and the braver management materialized, however, in the persons of Elmer L. Reisenstein and Cohan and Harris—and the accomplished result is the most novel and amazingly successful play now to be seen in all
New York.

The backward-moving drama of young Reisenstein's writing opens in the New York courtroom, where Robert Strickland is on trial for the murder of Gerald Trask. This in itself is a scene often presented in melodrama of recent years. But, thanks to the Candler theater's revolving stage and to an almost incredibly skillful manipulation of lighting effects, suddenly and with startling unexpectedness, five times is the audience whisked from this murder trial of the present and hurled headlong into the past, and five times is it as suddenly and unexpectedly jointed back to the present.

One realizes that much of this magical foray into the limbo of days ago is supposed to be a vital materialization of testimony then being given on the witness stand—the lights audibly going out on the courtroom scene and the incarnate resurrection of the past taking the place of Strickland's trial for murder.

But there are other moments when this upside-down sifting of sand in old Time's hourglass seems to be the result of reading the mind of someone or other of the principals in the story and a living reproduction of what one sees there. No matter what the impression, however, the play grips one's interest with amazing vividness and holds its entire audience well-nigh breathless with the curious suspense of its ingenious plot.

Seeking the Woman in the Case.
The story's earlier unfolding fills one's mind with the certain conviction that Gerald Trask, apparently the friend and benefactor of Robert Strickland, has been foully murdered by Strickland. One of the principals in the story and the gaining of some $10,000 which the latter knows to be in Trask's library safe. Then, suddenly, one learns from Trask's newly-made widow that Trask was a conscienceless voluptuary with women, and that there is a mysterious and sinful woman somewhere at the back of the story.

Gradually the developing figure of this woman assumes the shape of Robert Strickland's wife. Then, surely, one feels that Strickland slew Trask because of his discovery of glib relations between Trask and Mrs. Strickland. One is compelled to get the stamp of the married woman upon this woman, who has disappeared.

And then, unexpectedly, she herself takes her place on the witness stand and begins to testify. In the very middle of her opening sentence the stage becomes black—dark—then, with a full and final sweep of time backward for some thirty years, a story so piteous is told—the dreadful story of a 17-year-old girl's undoing in all her vestal purity of soul—that the instant acquittal of Robert Strickland is compelled.

husband wife and little daughter stand in the full light of regained happiness before our approving eyes.

That is, Robert Strickland is acquitted as soon as one still remaining black doubt is removed from the minds of the jurors. If not Robert Strickland, who was it that took the missing $10,000 from Gerald Trask's library safe on the night of Trask's murder?

Web Emmeches the Private Secretary.
A stubborn jurymen who will not vote for acquittal with this doubt in his mind asks that certain transcribed testimony be read. The reading necessitates the return to the witness stand of Gerald Trask's private secretary. Suddenly a suspicious flaw in this man's testimony is developed. Swiftly a strong web of incriminating evidence is thrown around him. At the last it appeals and overwhelms him—and with a wild cry of fear that the crime of murder itself may be fixed upon him, he confesses to the theft of the money. The killing of Gerald Trask by Robert Strickland, already proved, is justifiable homicide, not murder.

The play's story is made tremendously emotional. The credit for this, in the acting, belongs to Mary Ryan as Robert Strickland's wife; to Frederick Perry as Robert Strickland; to Constance Wolfe as their little daughter; to Helene Lackaye as the widow of Gerald Trask;
to Frederick Truesdell as Gerald Trask;
the dead man himself, made to live again during the story's backward swing into the past, and to Hans Robert as Glover, the private secretary. The company as a whole is admirable.

SAN CARLO CO. AT ITS BEST IN "MASKED BALL"

Large Audience at Grand Opera
Last Night Despite Counter Attraction.

With the most brilliant cast possible to assemble from among its members, the San Carlo Opera Company was heard at its very best last night at the Odeon in Verdi's "Masked Ball." This production, from the splendor of its singing and the extreme melodiousness of the opera itself, formed the crest of excellence as yet attained by the company during its engagement.

Fausto Castellani, whose heroic tenor again and again brings suggestions of Caruso, sang the role of Richard. Ester Adaberto, whose soprano voice, for sheer loveliness of tone quality, is without an equal in the company, sang Amelia.
Modesti, the company's premier baritone, had the part of Reinhardt. Oscar was played by the coloratura soprano, Edvige Vaccari. Carolina Zaver was Ulrico, and Besona and Cervi were Samuel and Tom.

This opera, comparatively little known when one thinks of the vogue of "Aida" and "Il Trovatore," surpasses them both in tunefulness. Melody upon melody of excellent beauty throngs into the score. A banquet for a musical epicure occurs in the third act, beginning with Amelia's dramatic aria and her enchanting love duet with Richard, and ending with a great quartet in which Samuel and Tom sang a laughing refrain as mocking as Mephisto's merriment in "Faust."

Giuseppe Angelini, by his forceful conducting, drew forth the last atom of the resources of his orchestra and chorus, and justly took one of the curtain calls with the stars. That public interest in the grand opera season continues unabated in its second week was proved by the presence of one of the biggest audiences of the engagement, despite the counter attraction of the charity ball.

This afternoon's matinee is "La Traviata," with Regina Vicarino as Violetta and Agostini and Modesti as the Germonts, son and father. Tonight's offering is "Lucia di Lammer-moor," with Antolia, Vicari and Scia-retti in the cast.

MAN BROUGHT HERE TO ANSWER CHECK CHARGE

Nebraska Police Arrest Suspect in $480 Jewelry Swindle in St. Louis.

William N. Fitzgibbon, 27, was brought to St. Louis from Lincoln, Neb., this morning, his photograph having been recognized as that of a man who obtained a $480 diamond ring from a local jewelry house with fraudulent checks. He says he is a victim of mistaken identity.

On April 8 last a well dressed man entered the store of Hess & Culbertson and after selecting a diamond ring introduced himself as the president of the St. Charles Brass Co. and gave two checks—one for $300 and the other for $180—in payment for the purchase. It was later learned the man had misrepresented himself and that the checks were worthless.

Two weeks ago a man entered a jewelry store in Lincoln, Neb., and asked to have some dental gold plates tested.
The clerk recalled that a dental supply house had been looted two nights before and telephoned the police. A patrolman who tried to arrest the man was floored by him and in a chase which extended for 10 blocks and in which automobiles were used, the man with the dental gold was overtaken.
He said he was William N. Fitzgibbon of Atlanta, Ga.

Photographs of Fitzgibbon were sent to the police of all large cities with a facsimile of Fitzgibbon's signature, handwriting Expert John Coakley of the St. Louis department thought he saw a resemblance in the facsimile to the signature on the checks given Hess & Culbertson.

Emil Niehaus, the clerk who accepted the checks, identified the photograph as that of the man who purchased the ring. Fitzgibbon served two years in the State prison at Jefferson City for robbing skyscraper offices in Kansas City.

COMPELS WOMAN TO GIVE UP MONEY IN STOCKING

Robber With Revolver "Guessed Right," Says Mrs. J. F. Gault, After Holdup.

Mrs. J. F. Gault of 294 Delmar boulevard, who has a "room-for-rent" sign in the front window of her home, answered the bell about 2:30 o'clock this morning and opened the door for a man who said he wanted to look at the room.
She turned her back and started to lead her way upstairs, when the man told her to wait a minute. Turning around, she looked into a revolver pointed at her head.

"Give me the money you have in your stocking," the man commanded. Mrs.
Gault denied having any money there,
but the robber compelled her to reach down and produce two $10 bills and a $5 bill.

The robber walked out the front door and disappeared down the street. Mrs.
Gault telephoned the police.

"He took a chance and guessed right,"
Mrs. Gault said.

SERIOUS CATARRH YIELDS TO HYOMEI

Also One of the Best Remedies for Head Colds or Bronchitis.

Be wise in time and use Hyomei at the first symptom of catarrh, such as frequent colds, constant sniffing, droppings in the throat, or dull headaches. Do not let the disease become deep-seated for it will surely wreck your health, often causing the loss of hearing, and if not checked may result in one of the most dreaded diseases.

Hyomei is nature's true remedy for catarrh—it is the direct method—you breathe it so that the medication goes right to the sore and diseased tissues lining the air passages of the head and throat. Its antiseptic healing moun begin at once.

It's no bother to use Hyomei. Simply put a few drops of the liquid into the inhaler, that comes with every complete outfit, and breathe it. You will feel better after the first breath of Hyomei. It clears the head and throat like magic; while after a few days' use you will notice all your catarrhal symptoms are disappearing.

There is nothing easier, quicker or more satisfying for catarrh than Hyomei, which can be had at any drug store. It is not merely a relief but a sure and lasting benefit—and most economical.—ADV.

Motor Car Economy Means More Than a Mere Saving of Dollars and Cents

It means that the car is correct in design, material and workmanship. It means efficiency of all parts because it is impossible to attain economy without efficiency.

It is the result of a well thought-out and carefully balanced machine. In short it means satisfactory and reliable service to the owner.

THE HAYNES
America's Greatest "Light Six"

has set a new standard in economical operation, for under ordinary conditions this car will travel 22 miles to the gallon of gasoline. Nor is the economy limited to gasoline consumption—oil consumption is correspondingly low, and tire expense has been cut almost in half. This car is the result of experience. The design is based throughout on sound engineering principles. All parts and units are blended into a perfect balance, simplicity having been given prime consideration.

Haynes quality is made manifest to the owner day after day and year after year by economy, efficiency and reliability under the most severe conditions.

The proof is in the car itself.

STEPS TAKEN TO PUT COTTON FUND AT WORK AT ONCE

Committee Named to Handle Transfer of $135,000,000 to the Southern Producers.

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—With the $135,000,000 cotton loan fund fully subscribed, steps were taken today to clear the way for the actual transfer of the money to Southern cotton producers, whose great crop threatened to become a burden on their hands upon the outbreak of the European war.

The Federal Reserve Board, acting as the Central Committee which has general supervision of the fund, named W. P. G. Harding and Paul M. Warburg of the board, A. H. Wiggin and James S. Alexander of New York, James B. Forgan of Chicago, Festus J. Wade of St. Louis, Levi L. Rue of Philadelphia and William A. Gaston of Boston as "Cotton Loan Committee," to administer the fund.

Committees to Be Named.
The Loan Committee will meet in New York probably on Friday. Its first task will be the appointment of committees in each of the cotton-producing states, which will act there. The state committees in turn will select local committees. Loans must be approved by the local and state committees before coming to the attention of the Cotton Loan Committee.

It is probable the office of the Cotton Loan Committee will be in New York. Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. In his announcement of the completion of the fund, said the success of the loan plan was assured. He said it had been "delayed by the selfish opposition of certain textile manufacturers and local interests who have tried to defeat it."

"We believe," he added, "that the carrying out of this plan is going to be beneficial not only in helping the cotton situation and the foreign exchange situation, but also by promoting the general prosperity of the country, which now has such a happy impulse that it would be difficult to retard it."

Fund Is Over-Subscribed.
Early yesterday the fund lacked only a few million dollars to insure success. Secretary McAdoo and Paul M. Warburg and W. P. G. Harding, members of the Federal Reserve Board, in active charge of the pool plan, took steps to complete the $100,000,000 portion of the fund assigned to banks in non-cotton-producing states.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. of New York, of which Warburg was a partner before he came to the board, agreed to subscribe $2,000,000. At a luncheon given by John Skelton Williams, Bernard M. Baruch of New York, formerly of South Carolina, said he might invest in the fund up to $1,500,000, and his offer was taken to the extent of $1,000,000, and thus the fund was completed. Later word was received from several banks that they were willing to subscribe $2,500,000, but their assistance was not needed. The fund is over-subscribed about $300,000.

In announcing the completion of the plan, Secretary McAdoo gave the following list of the cities and the amount subscribed to the fund:

New York, $2,000,000; Baltimore, $2,000,000; Boston, $2,000,000; Chicago, $2,000,000; Detroit, $1,000,000; Cincinnati, $2,000,000; Cleveland, $2,000,000; Kansas City, $2,000,000; Louisville, $1,000,000; Minneapolis, $1,000,000; Philadelphia, $4,640,000; Pittsburgh, $2,000,000; Richmond, $1,250,000; St. Louis, $1,000,000; San Francisco, $200,000; Washington, $1,000,000; Kuhn, Loeb & Co., $2,000,000; Bernard M. Baruch, New York, $1,000,000. Total, $100,250,000.

Secretary McAdoo said that among the larger subscribers in New York were J. P. Morgan & Co., National City Bank and Chase National Bank. The banks in Boston that subscribed to the fund are the National Shawmut, First National, Fourth-Atlantic National, Webster & Atlas National and Federal Trust Co.

"Great credit should be given to Messrs. Festus J. Wade and George W. Simmons of St. Louis for their earnest and effective work," said the Secretary.

Savannah, Ga., Banks Won't Subscribe to Cotton Pool.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 18.—Officials of the Savannah Clearing House Association announced last night that Savannah banks would not subscribe to the $135,000,000 cotton loan fund. A special committee reported the plan was not satisfactory. The proposal as originally formulated, provided for the subscription of $2,500,000.

The American steamers Carolyn and Berwind will sail within 10 days for Bremen, carrying the first cotton to be sent from this port to Germany since the war began. Other steamers probably will follow.

U.S. MOTOR CO. DIRECTORS SUE FOR AN ACCOUNTING

New Receivers Asked for Corporation Sold to Maxwell Company in 1912.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—An accounting from the directors of the defunct United States Motor Co., which had an authorized capital of $42,500,000, and which was placed in the hands of receivers two years ago, was sought in a suit filed in the Supreme Court here today by Emanuel Metzger, a stockholder. New receivers were also asked. In the papers filed it is alleged that the greater part of the proceeds of a $6,000,000 bond issue made in 1911, was wasted by the defendants. It is further alleged that altogether the defendants wasted $10,000,000 of the company's assets.

ILLUSTRATED OPINION BY U. S. SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—After deciding in favor of North Carolina in the boundary controversy between that State and Tennessee, the Supreme Court today determined to prevent further disputes by drawing an exact outline of the location and not relying upon verbal descriptions of the line.

The drawing, done by Justice McKenna, will be inserted into the printed opinion, which will be the first in a decade to be illustrated.

The court has given the states 40 days in which to name commissioners to mark the boundary line as established. Should the states be unable to agree upon officials the court will select them.

MEXICAN BATTLE ON; BULLETS CROSS BORDER; FOUR HIT

U. S. Custom Inspector Wounded in American Hotel During Naco Attack.

NACO, Ariz., Nov. 18.—R. H. Reynolds, a United States Customs Inspector, was shot through the left leg by a stray Mexican bullet today, when the Maytorena forces made a general attack upon the Carranza garrison of Naco, Sonora. Reynolds was in a hotel on the American side at the time. The bone of the limb was shattered. Three Mexican women on the American side also were wounded.

The artillery fire of the attackers was not well directed, and shrapnel burst frequently over the bomb-proof of the American troops guarding the border. Bullets from Maytorena's Yaqui riflemen also crossed the international line.

Carranza Repudiates His Proposal to Retire. WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Gen. Carranza has repudiated the telegram sent for him by Gen. Pablo Gonzales to Gen. Gutierrez, in which the first chief was represented as saying he would retire. This was announced today in an official dispatch from American Consul Sullivan.

While American Consul Sullivan reported that great efforts were being made to patch up the difficulties through intermediaries, other official advice said big frontal movements were under way and that a battle was imminent north of Mexico City, where the Villa troops were now advancing southward.

Gen. Obregon Assumes Supreme Command in Mexico City.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 18.—Gen. Alvaro Obregon yesterday assumed supreme command of the capital and of the Federal District. Last night he received a telegram from Gen. Pablo Gonzales, in which the latter declared that Gen. Villa, by advancing his troops southward, had repeatedly broken the truce agreement entered into Nov. 12 between Gen. Gonzales and Gen. Gutierrez, who recently was chosen Provisional President by the Aguascalientes convention.

A large body of troops belonging to Gen. Obregon's division arrived here last night from Irapuato, 29 miles southwest of Guanajuato.

It is reported here that Gen. Carranza will move his capital to Vera Cruz immediately upon the evacuation of that city by the Americans.

Gen. Carbajal Joins Villa and Is Killed. WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Gen. Jose Carbajal, a former Carranza chief, was killed in an engagement near Puerto Mexico yesterday when, with his troops, he joined Villa forces and attacked Gen. Jesus Carranza, a brother of the Constitutional First Chief.

BIRDS PICK PECANS FOR FARMER, ALTON MAN SAYS

Link Dundson Says He Saw Feathered Workers Filling Boxes Tacked in Trees.

Link Dundson of Alton, who was hunting pecans in the bottom lands west of Jerseyville with Joshua Powers, a friend and resident of the bottoms, noticed a number of starch boxes tacked about in the various trees.

"What's the object?" Dundson inquired.

"Well sit here a while and wait," replied Powers.

They did so, and in a little while a bluejay flew to one of the boxes with a pecan in his bill. The jay hopped about for a few seconds and then deposited the pecan in the box.

"I've got a whole regiment of bluejays gathering pecans in these here woods for me. Before cold weather came the woodpeckers helped, but they're gone now. Once in a while they make a mistake and put in an acorn, but it's easy enough to sort them," Dundson brought a number of the pecans with him to prove his story.

Says Robbers Threw Pepper in Eyes. James Allen, a switchman, 24 years old, of 1031 Morrison avenue, told the police that two robbers stopped him at Broadway and Market street about 1:30 o'clock this morning, and after throwing red pepper into his eyes, robbed him of $27.80. He was taken to the central dispensary, where physicians said his eyes were inflamed and that he was suffering from alcoholism.

FIRE IN QUELLMALZ PLANT

Report Shows July Blaze Also Started There.

In the Post-Dispatch account last Sunday of the fire the night before at the Henry Quellmalz Lumber and Manufacturing Co., Second and Barton streets, it was stated that a previous fire there last July started in the Keller & Tamm Manufacturing Co. plant, and spread to the Quellmalz property.

This was erroneous, as the official report at the time, made by the police, showed that the July fire originated at the Quellmalz plant, and spread to the Keller & Tamm property.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK CLEAR AND BRIGHT,
PRESIDENT SAYS

Opening of Reserve Banks Clarifies Situation, He Tells Secretary McAdoo in Letter.

IS OPPORTUNE TIME

European War Makes it Necessary to Mobilize Our Resources, Executive Asserts.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—"A future clear and bright with promise of the best things," was the way President Wilson summed up his view of the business prospect in a letter to Secretary McAdoo of the Treasury Department, congratulating him upon the opening of the new Federal Reserve Bank System.

The President referred to the new tariff law, the new currency law, the new trade commission law and the labor provisions of the new anti-trust law as the means "through which the soil everywhere had been laid bare, out of which monopoly is slowly to be eradicated."

He added that "undoubtedly the means by which credit has been set free is at the heart of all these things; is the key piece of the whole structure."

Referring to the "opportunities" of the currency law, the President said: "The war which has involved the whole of the heart of Europe has made it necessary that the United States should mobilize its resources in the most effective way possible."

He spoke of the difficulty of marketing the cotton crop and added that "no doubt in the light of the new day with its new understandings, the problems of the railroads will also be met and dealt with in a spirit of candor and justice."

President's Letter in Full.

The President's letter, which was in reply to one from Secretary McAdoo announcing the opening of the reserve banks, said:

"My Dear Mr. Secretary: I warmly appreciate your letter of yesterday for I share your feeling entirely about the significance of the opening of the Federal reserve banks for business. 'I do not know that any special credit belongs to me for the part I was privileged to play in the establishment of this new system of which we confidently hope so much. In it the labor and knowledge and forethought and practical experience and sagacity of so many men are embodied, who have co-operated with unusual wisdom and admirable public spirit of them. Not one of them, I am sure, will be jealous of the distribution of the praise for the great piece of legislation upon which the new system rests; they will only rejoice unselfishly to see the thing accomplished upon which they had set their hearts.' It has been accomplished, and its accomplishment is of the deepest significance, both because of the part it has done away with and because of the things it has supplied that the country lacked and had long needed. It has done away with agitation and suspicion, because it has done away with certain fundamental wrongs. It has supplied means of accommodation, a common business world and an instrumentality by which the interest of all without regard to class, may readily be served."

Conditions 10 Years Ago.

"We have only to look back 10 years or so to realize the deep perplexities and dangerous ill humors out of which we have now at last issued as if from a bewildering fog, a noxious miasma. Ten or 12 years ago the country was torn and excited by an agitation which shook the very foundations of her political life, brought her business ideals into question, condemned her social standards, denied the honesty of her men of affairs, the integrity of her economic processes, the morality and good faith of many of the things which her law sustained."

"Those who had power, whether in business or in politics, were almost universally looked upon with suspicion and little attempt was made to distinguish the just from the unjust. They in their turn seemed to distrust the people and to wish to limit their power. There was an ominous antagonism between classes. Capital and labor were in sharp conflict without prospect of accommodation between them. Interests harshly clashed which should have co-operated. 'This was not merely the work of irresponsible agitators. There were real wrongs, which cried out to be righted, and fearless men had called attention to them, demanding that they be dealt with by law. We were living under a tariff, which had been purposely contrived to confer private favors upon those who were co-operating to keep the party that originated it in power; and in that all too fertile soil all the bad, interlarded growth and jungle of monopoly had sprung up. Credit, which was the very life of trade, the very air men must breathe if they would meet their opportunities, was too largely in the control of the same small groups who had planted and cultivated monopoly. The control of all big business, too, was for the most part potentially, if not actually, in their hands."

Suspicion to Pass Away.

"And the thing stood so until the Democratic party came into power last year. The legislation education of the past year and a half has in very large measure done away with these things. With their correction, suspicion and ill-will, will pass away. For not only have these things been righted, but new things have been put into action which are sure to prove the instruments of a new life in which the mist and darkness which have so embarrassed us will be cleared away; the wrongs and misunderstandings corrected which have brought distrust upon so many honest men, unjustly. That is the main ground of my own satisfaction."

"The tariff has been recast with a view to supporting the Government rather than supporting the favored beneficiaries of the Government. A system of banking and currency issued has been created which, puts credit within the reach of every man and shows a growing business; and the supervision and control of the system is in the hands of a responsible agency of the Government itself. A trade tribunal has been created in which those who attempt unjust and oppressive practices in business can be brought to book."

"Labor has been made something else in the view of the law than a mere mercantile commodity, something human and linked with the privileges of life itself. The soil has everywhere been laid bare out of which monopoly is slowly to be eradicated. And undoubtedly the means by which credit has been set free is at the heart of all these things, is the key piece of the whole structure. This is the more significant because of its opportunities. It is brought to its final accomplishment just as it is most imperatively needed."

"The war which has involved the whole of the heart of Europe has made it necessary that the United States should mobilize its resources in the most effective way possible and make her credit and her usefulness good for the service of the whole world. It has created, too, special difficulties, peculiar situations to be dealt with, like the great embarrassment in selling our immense cotton crop, which all the world needs, but against which, for the time being, the markets of the world are in danger of being artificially shut. That situation the bankers of the country are meeting so far as possible in a businesslike fashion and in the spirit of the new time which is opening before us."

"The railroads of the country are almost as much affected, not so much because their business is curtailed, as because their credit is called in question by doubt as to their earning capacity. There is no other interest so central to the business welfare of the country as this. No doubt in the light of the new day with its new understandings, the problems of the railroads will also be met and dealt with in a spirit of candor and justice."

"For the future is clear and bright with promise of the best things. While there was agitation and suspicion and distrust and bitter complaint of wrongs, groups and classes were at war with one another, did not see that their interests were common and suffered only when separated and brought into conflict. Fundamental wrongs once righted, as they may now easily and quickly be, all differences will clear away. We are all in the same boat, though apparently we had forgotten it. We now know the port for which we are bound. We have, and shall have more and more as our understandings ripen, a common discipline of patriotic purpose. We shall advance and advance together, with a new spirit, a new enthusiasm, a new cordiality of spirited co-operation. It is an inspiring prospect. Our task is henceforth to work, not for a single interest, but for all the interests of the country as a united whole."

Bank Opening Commemorative.

"The future will be very different from the past, which we shall presently look back upon, I venture to say, as if upon a bad dream. The future will be different in action and different in spirit, a time of healing, because it will be a time of dealing and co-operation between men made equals before the law in fact as well as in name. I am speaking of this because the new banking system seems to me to symbolize all of it. The opening of the Federal reserve banks seems to me to be the principal agency we have created for the emancipation we seek. The sixteenth of November, 1914, will be notable as marking the time when we were best able to realize just what had happened. 'In the anxious times through which we have been passing, you have, my dear Mr. Secretary, been able to do many noteworthy things to strengthen and facilitate the business operations of the country. Henceforth you have a new instrument at hand which will render many parts of your task easy. I heartily congratulate you upon the part you yourself have played in its conception and creation, and upon the successful completion of the difficult work of organization. A new day has dawned for the beloved country whose lasting prosperity and happiness we so earnestly desire."

Sincerely yours,

"WOODROW WILSON."

DEAR MARY: Announce our announcement at dinner Thanksgiving. I'll buy the diamond ring at Lott's Bros. & Co., the National Credit Jewellers, 24 floor, 308 N. Sixth st.

Society

THE Charity Ball at Dreamland last night fulfilled every prediction of success. By 11 o'clock the spacious floor under its canopy of varicolored lanterns was crowded with dancers. Later more arrived from the opera and theaters.

By midnight society with a capital "S" was doing the most comical dance it has yet adopted—the Fox Trot. First you walk a bit, then you trot and then you limp. It is said to be lots of fun, and looks it.

In the long receiving line were the women who got up the brilliant affair and who are interested in the St. Louis Protestant Orphans' Home, for whose benefit the ball was given.

All evening gay little groups formed along the line to chat a while and then pass on to the dancing floor.

Among the dancers were three Veiled Prophet queens—Elsa Zelig, the reigning queen; Adeline Capen, last year's queen, who was charming in a gown with silver lace that made her Titian hair more lovely than ever, and Mrs. Harry Potter, formerly Miss Ada Randolph, who was busy selling cigarettes. Mrs. Potter was only one of many who helped sell cigarettes, miniature cotton bales, flowers and lemonade.

Charles Nagel, a member of President Taft's Cabinet; Gov. D. R. Francis, Edward F. Goltz, the Democratic national committeeman; and Florentino Constantino, world-famed tenor, drank lemonade from the cigarette stands at the corners of the foyer. Francis and Goltz had great fun dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hebard, Mr. and Mrs. Alden Little, Mrs. Fred Gardner, Mrs. Charles Moore, Jim Diamond, Mrs. Lew Rumsey, Dr. Max Goldstein, Mrs. Al Terry and Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Catlin Jr. were among the most ardent dancers.

Three luncheons today kept the debutantes and many of the belles of last year busy.

Mrs. Harry L. Block of 4555 Berlin avenue entertained in honor of Miss Louise Knapp and had 25 guests among whom were Misses Mary Nagel, Elsa Zelig, Mary D. Jones, Elizabeth Overton, Mimi Floyd-Jones, Dorothy Baker, Grace Allen, Carol Miller, Helen LeRoy Lane, Nancy Bates, Madeline Adams, Betty Whittemore, Sunie Cabanne Smith, Lucy Weisiger, Wesley Knapp and Katherine Clifford.

Mrs. H. M. Pfleger of 19 Kingsbury street gave a luncheon in honor of Miss Juanita Wilkinson and her guest, Miss Alice Rogers of Buffalo, N. Y. It was an informal affair. The guests included Miss Ruth Bixby and Miss Anna Tyler of Annapolis, Md., who is visiting here, and Miss Christine Woodruff.

Mrs. Alfred Partridge Harbord of 404 Berlin avenue gave a bridge luncheon at her residence in honor of Miss Katherine Guy, one of the debutantes of the season. The guests were Misses Edith Whittemore, Nancy Scott, Jane McNair, Ann Lionberger, Edna Simpkins and Grace Nicolls.

The Alumnae Chapter of Kappa Kappa pa Gamma will give a Pan-Hellenic tea Saturday afternoon at Lenox hall from 2 to 5:30 o'clock. Members of the Alumnae Chapters of all of her sororities have been invited. Mr. and Mrs. L. Cohen of 418 West Belle place, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Esther Cohen, to Joseph P. Olson of 433 Cook avenue. At home Sunday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock.

PEACE DEAL OFF, MURPHY DECLARES; WILL KEEP CUBS

National League Chicago Club Will Remain on West Side With Bresnahan as Manager.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—The Chicago Nationals will remain on the West side and Charles Weegman never has had an option on any amount of stock in the club, according to a statement made today by Charles W. Murphy.

Murphy, former president of the club, part owner of the West Side grounds, said still to hold as collateral a block of Cub stock approximately one half of it, returned today from Cincinnati where he discussed with Charles P. Taft, supposed to be the principal owner, reports that Weegman would buy the Taft holdings.

Weegman, said the former West Side, twice talked with Taft about buying the latter's stock, but never was an option. Murphy declared he had convinced Taft it would be suicidal to move the Cubs from the West Side, where they have always been well supported and where live two-thirds of Chicago's people. The Cubs, including players, franchise and plant, are worth $1,000,000 to $2,000,000, according to Murphy, and the club was one of the few to make material profit last year. Murphy declared further that Roger Bresnahan would succeed Henry O'Day as Cub manager next season.

Veegman Makes Statement.

Mr. Taft has called off negotiations regarding the purchase of the Cub, it means war to a fight between Federal League and Organized Baseball. Charles Weegman, president of the Chicago Cubs, today declared that he was not anxious for peace, but if we can't have it, we are more anxious for war than ever.

Weegman admitted he had never held an option on the Taft holdings, but said he had been promised a chance to bid for them.

Haskell Indians Unable to Play C.B.C. Team Here

Edskins Think Date Is Too Near Big Battle With Oklahoma.

Hope of arranging a football game for Saturday afternoon has entirely disappeared at Christian Brothers College. C. B. C. authorities expected to bring the Haskell Indians here for a return battle. An invitation to play here was extended to the Indians Saturday evening. Word received by wire last night to say that the Indians are afraid to risk a battle here because of a game with Oklahoma Turkeyfoot Indians. The game was detailed, was sent to Kansas City last night.

Coach Ward is giving his men light practice, merely running them through brief signal drill yesterday afternoon. Because it is on the bill for Thanksgiving day, the Indians are well known to local gridiron followers, having been an annual visitor to St. Louis University still two years ago.

Football May Beat Central.

After it had been announced that St. Louis would probably be without a college football game Saturday, high school authorities decided to bring the Haskell Indians here for a return battle. An invitation to play here was extended to the Indians Saturday evening. Word received by wire last night to say that the Indians are afraid to risk a battle here because of a game with Oklahoma Turkeyfoot Indians. The game was detailed, was sent to Kansas City last night.

Several of the Central leads are bungled up as a result of the trimming handed them by Haskell. And it may not be able to get back into the game. Haskell, an end, can barely raise his right arm, owing to a bad shoulder, and Wood, a tackle, has a closed eye. Others are more or less bungled up. On the other hand, Haskell is in St. Louis in a better condition after the victory over McKinley Saturday. It should be a struggle worth seeing.

Nebraska After Big Eleven.

The Athletic Board of the University of Nebraska, eager to show its prowess against some of the reputed strong teams of the West, has asked

CALLAHAN STOPS TICKLES SANDERS IN THIRD ROUND

Eastern Fighter Shows Cleverness and a Punch in Future City Mill.

Harry Sharpe's Decisions

FRANK CALLAHAN (right name Sam Holzman) of Brooklyn, N. Y., vs. "Tackle" Sanders of Memphis, Tenn., eighth round, weight 125 pounds at 7 p. m. Callahan the winner by a knockout in the third round.

"Young Zulu Kid" (right name Joe Demetrio) of Brooklyn, N. Y., vs. Tommy Garis of Memphis, Tenn., eighth round at 115 pounds—Tenn. the winner on points.

Andy Chismar vs. Johnny Thompson, both of St. Louis, eighth round at 125 pounds—Chismar the winner, but stopped in seventh round when Thompson appeared weak.

Leo Schneider vs. Jack O'Malley, fourth round at 135 pounds—Schneider the winner, but stopped in second round.

By Harry S. Sharpe.

Referee for Future City A. C. and the Post-Dispatch Boxing Authority.

Members of the Future City Athletic Club were last night taught the value of scientific boxing in the development of greater fighting ability. Sam Holzman, boxing under the name Frank Callahan, gave a wonderful demonstration of this, using "Tackle" Sanders of Memphis, Tenn., as his subject. Sanders, so far as he was permitted, performed his part well in this remarkable demonstration and deserves praise.

Against so clever an artist as Callahan, however, Sanders was "unable to do anything but get into a tight corner and try to get out of it." He did not wake until quite a number of seconds after the fatal 10th of Sanders' count had been told off. True, he moved, even struggled to his feet, exclaiming that the show was over in this remarkable demonstration. He was like a man in a nightmare who suffers and raves but with no conception of what is going on.

Even when he had been helped to his corner and all was being done for him, he played hard and often to the face and body, but Sanders fought back like a tiger at bay.

Tickets Proves Game.

Landing some good swings and punches, it gave him hope and courage; and once, when he thought he saw a chance for victory, he put all his strength into one hard right cross which he missed. It missed only by inches, but it was enough, and Callahan drew back from it as coolly as any boxer could have done.

Another conference is to be held late today or tonight.

Cochran Not Yet in Hoppe's Class

Harry Cline of Philadelphia, a veteran of the first class of ballline cue players, defeated Welker Cochran, the youthful prodigy of the billiard world, 200 to 157, last night at Peterson's. The match was one of the regularly scheduled games of the so-called Champions Billiard League, in which eight of the stars of the country are playing.

Cochran is 16 or 17 years old, and is from Manson, Io. He was until recently earning his living in Chicago, attending a trades school and developing his billiards simultaneously—an industry that promises well for his future.

The game was a professional, by which act he forfeited a splendid chance to become the national and international amateur cue champion.

Cochran brought a considerable reputation to St. Louis, among his performances being matches in which he averaged 130-143 and 125 for short games. Last night he averaged 125-125. His practice and tournament averages will range around 125 to 130.

Cochran showed aptitude at the game last night, but is crude in certain fundamentals. His cue action is good, but he looks at, although criticized by some experts. Cochran's high run last night was 27, which shows some bad judgment after the victory over McKinley Saturday. It should be a struggle worth seeing.

Frankie Callahan, New York tickler "Tackle" Sanders on the jaw last night with a right swing that made the crowd roar. Well, we had to play the count in the third round. While no official announcement was made from the ring, the consensus of opinion was that Mr. Callahan won by a wide margin.

Mr. Sanders' alibi will shortly be issued in book form.

Johnny Kling is one of the best cue artists that ever managed a ball club.

BLAND ELIGIBLE; WILL PLAY HERE AGAINST ST. L.

Star of Rolla Eleven Wires Post-Dispatch Rumors of Quitting Are Wrong.

By W. J. O'Connor.

Pitt Bland, the "blond demon" of the Rolla eleven, who, with Freeman and Imlay, forms the best back field in the state, wired the Post-Dispatch yesterday that he would positively perform here Thanksgiving day against St. Louis U.

"I am not only eligible, but in fine condition for the St. Louis U. game," Bland states, thereby spiking the rumor that he had been dropped from the Miners.

Bland is one of the few players on the Miners whose home is in Rolla. He is really the idol of the townspeople and the Rolla machine represents the town as much as it does the engineering school.

There are Bland is an attraction and his presence in the lineup a week from tomorrow should prove a magnet that will attract a big crowd from down State.

Copley Also in Lineup.

With Bland and Copley, the big tackle whose eligibility also has been questioned, in the lineup, the Miners will present their strongest front, a machine that steam-rolled its way to the State championship. The presence of these stars will minimize the Billiken's chances of holding the score to reason.

protections, but there are those who would rather see the State title holder Bland and Copley on the job, but no matter what the verdict is, the Nebraska can rest assured that they are a team that should give even Nebraska a run for its money.

Washington, by fortunate breaks, held the Miners to a 13-0 score on a muddy field. The Miners played the Pikers in the season and the Pikers played the Miners in the season and the Pikers played the Miners in the season.

Before going further with the William Johnson affair it might not be out of place for Curley to give the match an advance treatment of formaldehyde.

Getting Ready an Alibi.

"YALE has its best team since 1909," declared Coach Haughton of Harvard yesterday. "We fear them as much as we do the Yankees."

How Good Is Harvard?

THUS far there is no means of knowing just how good the Crimson machine is this year. An eleven or twelve men have been used in practically every other game, but one game, substitutes having been used in practically every other game.

For practically the first time THE REAL HARVARD ELEVEN is being shown. With the exception of its strongest individual factors, Charles Brickley.

Even without the captain, the eleven is supposed to be individually stronger than Yale, besides being practically a complete veteran team. If its machine-work is up to par, it should prove the better outfit.

Harvard Line a Terror.

HARVARD is worrying less about the lateral pass of Yale than about other features of play, we imagine. Harvard's superior line should smother most of those pass plays as they're under way.

But the great running back-field Yale can put in the field, composed of Knevels, Alaswerth, Legore and Wilson, is seriously to be feared, through straight football.

Brickley May Get In.

CHARLES BRICKLEY, the greatest backfield asset in the world, may break into the fray. This seems a miracle, for Brickley is on a few weeks off the operating table, and it would appear sheer folly to risk a man whose wound must still be tender in such a rough clash as football.

Brickley might safely be used to boot a field goal, however, if the warfare is close enough for that element to play a leading part in victory.

Running Down Brickley.

ONE of the queer features of the season has been the enmity of Harvard coaches to minimize Brickley's value. Coach Haughton and others have been quoted as saying that Har-

WRA'S COLUMN

Jess Willard, World's Champion?

ALL Jess Willard, the 27-year-old giant from Kansas, needs to be metamorphosed from an indifferent white hope into a world's champion is a stout heart. According to those who know him well, Jess, who was matched for the title with Jack Johnson, yesterday, in London, has every other qualification necessary and, thus far in his career, has done nothing to indicate he does not possess the kind of pumping station referred to.

Despite his scant championship experience, and the fact that a man 50 pounds his inferior in weight has beaten him (Gunboat Smith), it is figured that Willard's comparative value. His tremendous strength and his gorilla-like reach, plus the negro champion's 37 years of highly-seared life, should win for the white man, when they meet.

Beating a Cripple.

IT'S too bad that a title should change under such conditions. In the retrospect the victory of Jim Corbett over the weltering bulk, John Sullivan, was a pitiable enough conquest to result in so much glory. But the spectacle of a champion appearing less creditable, it is as if the "hope" had waited until Johnson played one foot in his pugilistic grave before taking a chance at him.

It will surely be said that it took three to finally overthrow the big black Father Time, John Barleycorn and Willard. And the greatest of these will not be Willard, unless he's a wonderfully improved man since he fought Smith.

Pass the Smelling Salts.

INCIDENTALLY, this will be Jack Curley's third world's championship enterprise. Jack promoted the Gotch-Hackenschmidt event and the Johnson-Jim Flynn affair. Compared to both of these the Dillon-Brown battle was a howling success.

Before going further with the William Johnson affair it might not be out of place for Curley to give the match an advance treatment of formaldehyde.

MAGEE'S ACTION PUZZLING TO FANS, WHO EXPECT PEACE

Cardinal Star Seems Foolish to Serve Ten-Day Notice if War Is at End.

Are baseball folks kidding themselves about the roosevelt prospects for peace? This question suggests itself as a result of Lee Magee's action in serving President Wilson a notice of his intention of quitting the local team. Magee mailed such a notification to local headquarters yesterday.

If peace is to be restored, as everybody in organized baseball and the Federal League predicts, we can't see the reason for Magee trying to untie the olive branch which binds him to the Cardinals next season. Who can he hope to find until it is definitely known whether the warring factions are to frame an armistice. And unless such self-styled wisacres, as Higgins, Britton, Steininger and Stifel are dead wrong, their treatment of the young first-bagger should be forced to remain at Robison Field next season.

So it does seem that the impetuous Mr. Magee has pulled a boner, to use expert language. He has put himself in the position of being dismasted with his job here, and the fans, who have wearied of the political end of the game, are liable to be anything but generous in their treatment of the young first-bagger should he be forced to remain at Robison Field next season.

To Slice Johnson's Salary.

The hope is that Johnson received $12,000 last season. If the Federal League is in a position to rule with a mailed fist, it is in a position to rule with a mailed fist. Anyhow, a wholesale slicing of salary was to be expected. The war is ended. The magnates have agreed to get even with the boys who worked the daylight "hold-up" last summer.

THEY dug into an ancient Egyptian tomb last fall and, among other things, found some seeds—some seeds.

The tomb was deep in the drifted sands of the desert and had been buried and forgotten, thousands of years before the Christian era.

One of the exploring party, who was of rather an inquisitive turn, said he had a notion to plant one of the seeds and see if it would grow. Others laughed at him and said the seed was dead. He determined to try it. He got some good earth and planted the seed, and after due time a little tender shoot of green lifted its head above the soil, AND GREW.

And that humble little seed had been planted instead of being buried, and the hundreds of seeds that would have grown from it been cultivated in turn, they would have grown soon enough to feed the world.

And so it is with a dollar.

When you waste it, or sow it in waste places—bury it or hoard it, its usefulness is stifled—it remains—a dollar—lost—entombed.

But plant it! Plant it in the good earth of a Mercantile Trust Company savings account and it will sprout pennies and blossom dimes and yield fruit in interest—over and over—more and more—till it is almost past believing.

Plant $2 each week in the rich savings-cash here and watch it grow. In a single year $2 a week blossoms into $105.95.

In ten years $2 a week grows into a waving field of yellow backs, $1,244.69 strong!—a dollar harvest of plenty.

Even if you have not begun your planting, it is not too late.

The dollar will grow, the same as the seed from the tomb in old Egypt, if you will only be inquisitive enough to plant it.

Is it not worth the trial?

If so, why not to-day—now while you think of it?

SALOON MANAGER SHOT BY ROBBER DURING HOLDUP

William Bruening Wounded by One of Two Men Who Entered Store.

HIS CONDITION SERIOUS

Highwaymen Escape as One Curses Other for Firing and Bungling Job.

William Bruening, 40 years old, of 2002 North Market street, manager of a saloon and grocery at Blair avenue and O'Fallon street, is in a critical condition at St. Mary's Infirmary. He was shot by one of two highwaymen last night.

Bruening was serving Charles Coleman of 1214 North Fifteenth street in the grocery department when the robbers entered a few minutes after 10 o'clock and ordered him to throw up his hands. He obeyed.

Each of the robbers had a revolver, and when one of them commanded Bruening to lead the way into the saloon the other fired three shots at him and he fell behind the counter.

With an oath the shooter's companion rebuked him for bungling and the two fled south on Blair avenue. Bruening was unconscious when Father John J. Butler of St. Lawrence O'Toole's Parish, attracted by the shots, ran from the parochial residence, 1412 O'Fallon street, a block away.

The priest administered spiritual rites while Coleman summoned a doctor. The physician found that the robber's bullet had struck Bruening in the left hip and passed through his abdomen. He was taken to the hospital.

Coleman said the robbers appeared to be about 25 years old and were nervous. They wore dark clothing.

Breckinridge Jones Tells Gathering of Necessity for Law Revision by Legislature.

Missouri banking laws must be revised radically to give 1360 State banks and trust companies the standing and confidence now enjoyed by 133 national banks in Missouri, Breckinridge Jones said yesterday afternoon in addressing Group Five of the Missouri Bankers' Association.

As chairman of the committee of seven appointed at a convention last May to prepare a law revision program, Jones announced that Gov. Major would be asked to appoint nine business men to co-operate with the seven bankers in preparing a report to the next Legislature. Jones said the committee had reached no decisions as yet, but he outlined many proposals that had been discussed.

Jones said the banking laws forbid State banks holding stock in other corporations, and this must be amended to permit the State banks to hold stock in the Federal reserve banks. Laws that will assist in perfecting a system of rural credits should be given special attention by the Legislature, he said.

SIEGEL STATEMENT OF ASSETS UNTRUE ACCOUNTANT SAYS

Discrepancies in List Given Bank Totals Hundreds of Thousands, He Swears.

GENESEE, N. Y., Nov. 18.—The eighth day of the trial of Henry Siegel, New York banker and merchant charged with fraud and larceny, opened this morning with John Flint, expert accountant of New York, as a witness.

Flint was called to testify late yesterday afternoon. He made fruitless efforts to keep him off the stand. Flint swore to discrepancies in figures in the credit statement offered the National Bank of Commerce, New York, as the basis for a loan of $100,000. The alleged discrepancies total hundreds of thousands of dollars, according to the witness.

Only four out of the sixty departments in the New York Fourteenth street store made a profit in the year of 1913, Flint testified.

Flint probably will be followed by George C. Sutton of New Orleans, who took testimony during the examination of Siegel in bankruptcy proceedings in New York City.

BOY GETS MEDAL FOR SAVING DROWNING MAN

C. Edmund Perry of Glendale Honored at Dinner to Scoutmasters.

A bronze medal was awarded Monday to C. Edmund Perry, 17 years old, of Glendale, St. Louis County, at a dinner given to scout masters at the Mercantile Club by Charles Nagel, formerly Secretary of Commerce and Labor, and a recently elected chairman of the local council of Boy Scouts.

The medal was in recognition of Perry's bravery, Aug. 17, in saving the life of Norman E. Wiser of Chevy Chase, at Potomac Beach, Va. Wiser was bathing in the river and stepped into deep water. Perry dived three times and brought him to the surface. Perry weighs 125 pounds and Wiser 185. The Carnegie Hero Fund Board has asked for particulars of the rescue.

Perry is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Perry. He is a student in the Kirkwood High School and a member of Troop 1, Boy Scouts, in Webster Groves.

LOSES TOE WHEN HEAVY PAPER CUTTER OVERTURNS

George McCullough, 46, Knocks Instrument Down While Sweeping in Shop.

George McCullough Jr., 16 years old, of 225 East Euclid avenue, suffered the loss of the large toe of his left foot this morning in a peculiar accident at the Capital Grinding Co., 112 North Third street, where he is employed.

He had swept a heavy piece of paper against a paper cutter knife, which was standing on end and leaning against the wall. The knife is five feet long, seven inches wide and one-quarter inch thick, with a sharp edge. The knife toppled over and the edge penetrated his shoe, cutting through the bone of the large toe. He was taken to the city hospital, where a surgeon amputated the toe.

WASHINGTON U. IS SUED

Action Brought to Collect $1483.90 Special Tax.

A suit against Washington University to collect $1483.90, alleged to be due since Nov. 19, 1912, as a special tax levied for the improvement of Delmar avenue between Skinker road and the city limits, was filed today in the Circuit Court at Clayton, by the Broadway Bank.

The petition recites that the city of St. Louis issued a special tax bill against the university to H. F. Heman Construction Co., on which the bank now sues.

WOMEN'S CHARITY SHOW ENDS IN A ROW, 4 ARE FINED

Testimony Shows Jealousy Caused Dissension in Blue Bell Club of Granite City.

Charity did not begin at home when the Blue Bell Club of Granite City, composed of women prominent in the social life of that portion of the town known as the West Side, gave a charity entertainment. It broke up in a row which resulted in the president and three other members of the club being fined $5 and costs each in Justice Connelley's court at Madison yesterday afternoon.

Those fined were Mrs. J. T. Reynolds, wife of a former Alderman; Mrs. Margaret Cowan, Mrs. Maggie Pinkerton and Mrs. J. Ritchie. The prosecuting witness was Mrs. F. M. Fox. All were charged with peace disturbance. The only other defendant, Mrs. William Williams, was acquitted.

Planned to Aid the Poor.

The Blue Bell Club was organized several months ago to raise funds for a Christmas charity entertainment for the poor of the tri-cities.

One of the means of raising money was a benefit entertainment at the Washington Theater a week ago. Members of the club sold tickets and acted as ushers.

Testimony at the trial yesterday showed that jealousy cropped out when some of the women were dissatisfied with the duties assigned to them. Some were appointed ushers wanted to be ticket sellers. Though Mrs. Williams was president of the club, it was alleged that Mrs. Fox tried to "run things." After the show there was a wordy war between Mrs. Fox and other members of the club. According to the testimony, there also was some hair pulling.

Husbands Keep "Hands Off." Mrs. Fox had summonses issued for five members who were tried yesterday, but on their first trial before Justice Mueller of Granite City, they were all acquitted. The cases were then taken to Justice Connelley's court on State warrants.

All of the women testified as to the dissension in the club and one said she had received an uncompromising letter from another member to whom she had written in an effort to patch up their differences.

Husbands of the women thus far have pursued a "hands-off" policy, though their aid has been asked by various members of the club in the effort to restore peace.

800 STUDENTS STRIKE

Wisconsin High School Pupils
Say Principal Affronted Girl.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Nov. 18.—The 800 pupils in the city's high school have gone on strike because of an alleged affront by the principal, M. J. Jack, to Florence Blood, 15 years old. Today they returned to the school under a promise by which the principal absented himself from the building, but they say they will leave permanently unless Jack makes a public apology to the girl.

The principal, it is alleged, charged Miss Blood with wearing her hair in braids down her back as a lure to boys and ordered her to go home and arrange her hair differently.

"There doesn't seem to be any- thing the matter with business in your shop."

said a merchant to a Post-Dispatch representative this morning. As a matter of fact, there isn't, as all of our records show.

For example—St. Louis merchants having found the Post-Dispatch to be the one best bet, concentrated as usual in its advertising columns of Tuesday of this week to the extent of 77 columns and were satisfied with only 57 columns or 20 less in its three next nearest competitors, the Globe-Democrat, Republic and Times added together.

PLANS HALF-HOUR LIMIT ON STANDING VEHICLES

Director Talbot to Cause Bill to Relieve Downtown Traffic to Be Introduced.

Director Talbot of the Department of Streets and Sewers, today announced his intention of causing the introduction in the Municipal Assembly of an ordinance prohibiting vehicles from standing in one place in the business district east of Twelfth street more than 30 minutes.

Talbot returned yesterday from Atlanta, Ga., where he attended a roads convention, and while he was there the Atlanta City Council adopted a similar ordinance.

Talbot said some persons leave vehicles on the streets for many hours, interfering with traffic. He said he would prepare another ordinance to repeal the present ordinance which prohibits garages east of Twelfth street. The repeal of this ordinance would permit the location of several garages in the business district and persons owning automobiles would be able to put them in garages when not using them.

NO AIDS FOR SWINGLEY

Comptroller Player today refused to certify a bill introduced recently in the City Council authorizing a secretary at $2500 a year, and a stenographer at $1200 per year for Director of Public Safety Swingley, on the grounds that the city's funds are too low. He said that the matter would have to wait until April, 1915, the beginning of the next fiscal year.

Swingley said he would have to use Fire Chief Henderson's office force. Swingley still occupies his old headquarters on the first floor of the city hall.

FOR A SOUR STOMACH, INDIGESTION, GAS OR DYSPESIA—PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN.

Wonder what upset your stomach— which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take Pape's Diapepsin, and in five minutes you will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress. Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Dia-pain occasionally keeps the stomach regulated and they eat their favorite food without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is astonishing. Please don't go on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.—ADV.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Right of Free Speech.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your article headed, "Limiting Free Speech," in today's paper is the best on the subject that has appeared in St. Louis in some time. The I. W. W. is not composed (as most people seem to think) of men who do not work—the majority of them do work. I am not a member of the I. W. W., but have attended their meetings in St. Louis and other cities and I find that most of them are well educated, self-supporting men and many of them have families and support them. They are members of the I. W. W. because they believe they are doing good.

AMERICA.

Compel Fathers to Support Children.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Monday's papers revealed the fact that the Central Trades and Labor Union on Sunday, the 4th, adopted a resolution asking the Missouri State Federation of Labor to draw up a bill to be presented to the next Legislature providing that children be supplied with proper clothing so that they might attend school during the winter months.

The writer is in public life, is connected with an institution that gives out a great deal of clothing and has continuous calls for relief, and it can be truthfully said that in nine cases out of 10, when traced down, it is found that the use of liquor on the part of the father has been the real cause for the neglecting of the child.

At the same time the Federation of Labor is strong in its opposition to prohibition, which would prevent the father from exercising his personal liberty to the extent of turning his children loose on the public without food or equipment, or even the necessities of life. And still the Trades Union comes forth demanding that the public should furnish clothing to the children of this type of men. And the public ought to do it as long as it is foolish enough to permit itself to be sandbagged by the saloon and liquor interests.

CONSISTENCY.

Independence Appreciated.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The Post-Dispatch, always alert, remarkably so in observing the rights and welfare of the people, in a well balanced and aggressive editorial, has made a demand that free speech be respected in St. Louis, whether or not the speaker talks from the viewpoint of the workman or millionaire, so long as traffic is not blocked and American principles are not violated. The Post-Dispatch is nearly the exponent of the people and can always be depended upon to be on the side of the people at whatever cost to itself.

FRANK R. BIGNY.

(In the Saturday Union Record.)

Parkway Will Injure Colored Citizens.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The negro of St. Louis is not opposed to the progress of the city in any way. We stand for civic improvements, for civic righteousness and for the welfare of all citizens, and we are willing to co-operate in any movement to secure a safeguard to the citizens the real end of true government.

While much is being said pro and con about the new parkway, we desire to call the attention of all concerned to its effect on the citizens of the community under consideration for this new improvement. If the committee had carefully planned to disturb the negro business life of the city and to handicap its church life it could not have a more perfect program, to accomplish it; the matter of tearing up the business interests and locating them elsewhere is a great embarrassment to my people.

The driving of thousands of these people from the community of their churches will be almost a calamity. The entire life of a peaceful and happy community will be disturbed and moved to nobody knows where.

The people will not be allowed the privileges of other races to move and live anywhere in peace, and there is not sufficient room in the negro sections of the city to properly house the thousands that will have to move, so that they will be forced to find a place to dwell wherever they can rent or buy; then friction will begin. It appears that somebody has anticipated this and has offered a bill in the City Council to disincorporate the city by a segregation ordinance. For a city to affect such a large portion of its citizens in a vital way as the city fathers propose to do by the parkway plan, it should have something to propose for the welfare of those citizens they are putting to a disadvantage.

We have too much in business interest, in churches and in race life that will be hurt for us to keep silent.

Will those who are in authority inform us as to what they have for the future location and welfare of these citizens? R. F. ABBOTT.

Paster Union Memorial Church, 208 N. Leffingwell.

AN OUTSIDE VIEW OF NEW YORK.

Collier's, having told what they think of St. Louis, want a St. Louisan's impression of New York and offer to pay for it. They can have ours for nothing.

Here goes. From where we sit we have a good view of New York's back, which is always turned this way except when it is asking for money. It appears to have one thing in common with Boston—and we are not speaking of baseball, either. Boston fronts on the Back Bay and backs on the rest of the Universe. New York's charming provincialism, oblivious of a little thing like America behind it, enjoys an elevated outlook—shall we say aspiration?—towards Suez and beyond, where there ain't no ten commandments. We don't want to seem harsh, but it is proverbial that certain statutory offenses which are felonies or at least misdemeanors elsewhere are scarcely rated a breach of etiquette in little old New York, and we would lay more stress on this point if New York's population were not generously recruited from the West. It just shows the influence of the place on erstwhile good Westerners. We recall specially how demoralizing Delphin Delmas, the California lawyer, found it where he went on to help New York enshrine Harry Thaw.

"NEW YORK."

Vulgar manner—overfed.
Overdressed and underbred.
Heathen, Godless—Hell's delight.
Rude by day and lewd by night.
Dwarfed the man, enlarged the brute.
Ruled by graft and prostitute.
Purple robed and pauper clad.
Raving, rotting, money mad.
Squirreling herd in mammon's mesh.
Wilderness of human flesh.
Craved by avarice, lust and rum.
New York, thy name delirium.

A bit crisp, think you? Perhaps. Yet think of what New York must be to shock a man from Frisco! It must be confessed that Mr. Delmas vividly reflects the dizzy-dazzling phase of New York's lobster-palace stupidity. Yet the vision is incomplete.

A St. Louis poet's (Orrick Johns) impression of New York, "Second Avenue," is more in our way of seeing—it was the prize American poem of the Lyric Year, published in 1912:

In gutter and on sidewalk swells
The strange, the alien disarray,
Flung from the Continental helms,
From Eastern dark to Western day.

Are you, O motley multitude,
Descendants of the squandered dead,
Who honored courage more than creeds
And fought for better things than bread?

For gold you drive the alien slaves,
The Gentile fiercer than the Jew—
Like men immured in living graves
You breathe and breed. Ah! not for you

The gorgeous canvas of the morn.
The sprinkled gaiety of grass,
The sunlight dripping from the corn,
The stars that hold high-vestured mass.

The shattered grandeur of the hills,
The little leaping lovely ways
Of children, or what beauty plays
In summer greens and autumn grays.

These are not gained by any toil
Of groping hands that plead and plod,
But are the unimproved spoil
Poured from the bursting stores of God.

And sympathetically we remember the kinder, brighter glimpsing of another St. Louisan (Jon E. Gorso) in a well-turned sonnet to "New York":

Restless your feet and smooth your pavingstones
On which, high endlessly, the shod stream flows;
Cold is your eye, yet in your speech oft glows
A courtesy, that nearly for the chill tones.

Heedless the crowd sweeps by the man who moans,
Careless of those who fall, or serve; yet grows
Sad in an hour for cities wrecked, and blows
Trumpets for heroes or o'er heroes' bones.

Days are your lot that make men long to die,
So dank with fog and chill from windy sea;
'Tis faces darken and their kisses cloy;
As cups of opal filled with sun, to me

Your streets are Jasper and to live 's joy.
Our own prosy view is simpler, if more superficial. First impressions are indelible. Ours recall Pevely Sadders' startled sensations on seeing his first railroad train in Taney County. He described it: "We was all standin' on a long platform when we hearn a roar like a storm and the dern thing come on endwise—if it had of come sidewise it would a killed the whole passel of us." And our jaded spirits after a few days in New York recall the first visit of Pevely Sadders' bound pup to Springfield—"He aged consid'able dodgin' teams."

The important thing in New York is to be a good dodger. And there are plenty of them there, artful and otherwise. If all good Americans want to go to Paris when they die, it seems that all bad Americans want to go to New York while they live. Other towns drain off their prize crooks to New York. One is sure to run across old friends there, if he doesn't look sharp (and probably no St. Louisan ever looks sharp). Appearances are deceiving, albeit, and some of the best crooks St. Louis ever evolved have deserted our Million Club to swell Gotham's population. Personally we wouldn't move there to live if you'd give us the whole place.

And we concede its fascination. What visions the mention of New York conjures up! Fifth avenue on a bright Easter! The lure of Washington Square and Springtime! A sunrise over Central Park! A thousand visions, dreams of vistas, glimpses of charm, touches of color, by day and by night! Always reverting to the shimmering night and that blazoning Broadway!

We have always considered New York foolish and braggart in publishing and telegraphing back to their home towns the names of hotel arrivals. A great many more reputable people would go there and spend money if they could do so without apology. Why should the mention of New York in the West have to be accompanied with a wink or provoke a coughing spell?

Certainly the churches in New York seem beautiful to an outsider. The art galleries are full of wonder, and one could spend days in the library without absorbing all of its treasures and rare delights. As for culture—there is a delicious imitation of artistic atmosphere in its near-literary circle that would captivate anybody who is not familiar with what the magazines and publishers are actually doing. In New York's salons there is the largest mutual admiration society of long-maned tea-lions ever assembled in captivity. The tea, by the way, is well-flavored. We have tasted it. But, except in a club, there isn't a drink of good Bourbon whisky in the town. Incidentally, while on the subject of clubs, let us return Mr. Julian Street's pretty compliments on the clubs of St. Louis. We cheerfully admit that New York's clubs would be a credit to any first-class city.

And we all must confess that in the drammer New York does shine. Except for owning all the railroads, controlling the industries and holding all the money, the biggest interest New York has for the country at large is dramatic. Broadway is really more significant and diverting than Wall street. We are not kowtowing to Rockefeller, Morgans and fellows of that ilk, but the whole civilized world takes off its hat to George M. Cohan, believe us.

Yet there are some awfully dull days in New York, for all its frivolity. We can recall times when you couldn't find anything of human interest between the Bronx Zoo and the Aquarium at the Battery; times when the whole blame works bored you past expression, and you longed to be "back with the folks at old St. Joe." Folks—real Americans—are so few and far between in New York; there's only a quarter of a million of them altogether; and it is the foreignest town on top o' dirt to the indigenous United States citizen. The homesickness of the expatriate American in New York passeth understanding. With it is always the sense of having been cheated. It is said of Rome that you get out of it only what you brought into it. But you gave New York more than it gave you. You brought yourself, you gave your enthusiasm, and you bring away a sense of emptiness, of weariness with unreality, a sense of too much Charlotte Russe and a great yearning for ham and eggs; footsore, soul-weary, futile, bankrupt—and involuntarily, unconsciously resolved to go right back next season if everything is propitious—just as one goes back to the Casino at Monte Carlo.

What New York thinks of the rest of this great country of ours is negligible. But the attitude of this great country towards New York is vital. That determines what New York is and what it shall be. Its destiny, seems to us, depends on whether it shall continue to grow un-American and alienate itself from the tributary sources whence its strength now flows, or cultivate a more representative character and wider sympathies with American life. London is the heart of England and the British Empire. Paris is the idol of all France, beloved of every Frenchman. We do not speak of admiration. But what Americans west of the Alleghenies literally love New York? There are more Americans genuinely loyal and devoted to Chicago than to the biggest city on the Continent.

The Babel-like seat of "dementia Americana" has none of the essence of a great city, none of the civic spirit, tone, motive, or principle. It is not in any sense a community, in interests, sympathies or pride. It is a loosely-bound and ill-governed conglomeration, a mass of indifferences. Mainly it is a Mecca of amusements and a show window of Mammon.

It is full—no, not quite full—of lovely people; but its citizenship would be farcical if it were not pathetic. Citizenship in New York consists of alternating forms of neurosthenia known as Tammanyitis and Tammanyphobia. New York is invariably at odds, as in the Baltimore convention of 1912, with the political decency of the day. New York is at odds with most of the great desires, the nobler impulses, the larger purposes of the country. It does not pulse with the heart-throbs of the great American people. New York never puts its ear to the ground. It is always self-sufficient and cocksure—and contemptuous. Its superciliousness was never so well expressed as by Nat Goodwin, who remarked, "When you leave New York you're camping out!"

It will be replied that ours is a flippant view of New York. We admit it, and we gravely assure New York that it is a typical outsider's view. Nobody takes New York seriously except some New Yorkers. We maintain that this is the fault not of us but of New York, if its object is to be taken seriously.

MEN WHO FAIL.

JUST A MINUTE.

SOCRATES ON LOSING ONE'S HEAD.

Socrates: Last night at the Agora we made a last despairing effort to find out what the war is about. Critics, who holds that the war is due to inner politics of which we know nothing, tried to make us understand what he means by that. He presently made it plain that he meant nothing by it. Like all the other reasons for the war that have been advanced, it dissolved into thin air when someone tried to explain it.

Glaucou: There is, then, no definite cause belli.

Socrates: No. It seems preposterous, but is none the less true. We all know that fear of German militarism is at the bottom of it, but that is not what brought the war on. It is conceivable that a civilized community like Europe might have had very good reasons for fighting and still have kept peace. It is a serious matter for all those countries to go to war.

Glaucou: Rather.

Socrates: Thus, German militarism might have been a reason for fighting a year ago, but it was not.

Glaucou: Truly.

Socrates: The truth, then, is that Europe lost her head.

Glaucou: It seems so.

Socrates: I am convinced of it. I think all those countries are wondering how they ever got into such a state, and I do not believe any of them is satisfied with its own reasons for being at war.

Glaucou: It wouldn't surprise me, either.

Socrates: One must keep one's head, my dear Glaucou.

Glaucou: Yes.

Socrates: There is no civilization which will relieve us of that necessity.

Glaucou: No.

Socrates: A man who gives his life, as so many men in Europe are doing now, ought to be given the right to know why he is giving it.

Glaucou: Surely.

Socrates: We hear it said continually that men over there do not know why they are fighting, and it is no doubt true. Bearing one another no ill will, they are still killing each other as fast as they can, and the finest civilization in history is suddenly plunged into barbarism. We try two or three nights a week at the Agora to ascertain why that should be so, and we are no nearer explaining it now than we were when the war broke out. Someone has asked what the war is to be called. I suggest that it be known as the War About Nothing.

Thrasymachus: Excellent, O Socrates!

Socrates: Very well. Now let us all draw straws to see who will bring in a stick of wood.

THE MESA.

Listen, my heart, the Mesa is calling—
Calling us back where the cattle nod
In sun-kissed dreams, and the light is falling
Down from the purpling hills of God.
CLYDE ADDISON WRIGHT.
Carlyle, Ill.

What has the East, with its gilded glory,
To offer to us, my heart, that we Should linger here with the song and story
Of days we have known—in the use-to-be?

In the clear, calm nights when the herds were drowsing
Out on the plains 'neath the shimmering stars;
And we with our golden dreams went drowsing
Down by the sands of the river bars;

Did not muse o'er the night bird singing
In tender cadence of love divine,
To his bright-eyed mate that was gently swinging
On the cactus wall of the old range line?

Oh, heart of mine, the Mesa is calling—
Calling us back where the cattle nod
In sun-kissed dreams, and the light is falling
Down from the purpling hills of God.
CLYDE ADDISON WRIGHT.

Why should one have to write as well as Mr. Reedy, Collier's? Why not only as well as Julian Street?

Making Harvey Happy.
From the Washington Star.
Since his call at the White House, Editor Harvey may again feel a certain satisfaction in the recognition that has been accorded him as the original Woodrow Wilson man.

Won't Seem Natural.
From the Kansas City Star.
Even with Mr. Cannon, Mr. McKinley and Mr. Curtis back, it is feared Congress still won't ever look the same.

Profitable Salt Monopoly.
From the Washington Post.
A Government monopoly of salt in Russia should raise an enormous revenue, considering the amount the natives will have to take with the censor's reports.

BEAUTY CULTURE.
A. E. O.—Enlarged pores, due to deficient circulation of the blood, may be greatly reduced by vigorous rubbing with a coarse, not harsh, towel every night. The face is washed, lemon juice will both cleanse and contract the pores and will do no harm to the skin unless it is exceptionally tender, under which condition the juice should be diluted.

ANXIOUS.—You can buy good bran at a reliable feed store; some leading grocers sell it.

Other remedies are fluid extract of cinchona, three times daily; hyoscyamus hydrobromate, gr. 1/32-1/16 three times daily. Obsolete cases occasionally respond to antipyrin, gr. x, four times daily. Quinine is also of benefit at times.
If refused, get some loaf sugar and give one piece after taking scullap. Omit tea and coffee.

MRS. C. A. A.—Apple utter (German recipe): To make by baking in an oven until boiling; put in enough sugar to suit taste, then put in a bag of whole cinnamon and whole cloves cut in two; then put in oven with a slow fire, stirring once in a while, and bake until dark and sticky. The other way—To a barrel of apples add 1 lb. sugar and then put in the worth of whole cinnamon and whole cloves cut in two, and some anise seed if you like it. Stir all the time until dark and thick; add a little water and stir to the bottom of kettle if you forget to stir.

L. L. L.—There was no such contest as you mention. Here is a prize recipe: To make four loaves take two quarts milk and heat to boiling over hot water, then set aside to cool. When lukewarm dissolve in the milk one cake compressed yeast. Sift four generous quarts flour, four level teaspoons of salt and two level tablespoons granulated sugar. Place in a large bowl or bread pan and warm if the weather is cold. Make hole in center and pour in the milk and yeast. Work in slowly the salt and sugar with a little flour, and flour until smooth. Cover with a moderately warm place to rise. In morning knead thoroughly and work in table salt. Five days' notice of such sale must be advertised in newspaper. You may notify your intention to sell, or have delinquent give you the property for the sum of $1.00. Salt may be had at your residence.

M. C.—Neither husband nor wife can control the delivery of matter addressed to the other. When so instructed, Postmaster must refuse to deliver letters to the husband, which are addressed to the wife, or those to the wife which are addressed to the husband. In the absence of instructions to the contrary, the husband's letters are placed in the husband's box and delivered to him with his own letters, unless they are known to live separately.

Human Wireless

An Uncanny Tale of the Communication Between Two Brothers Attached to an American Regiment Doing Duty on the Philippine Islands.

By Lieut. F. V. S. Chamberlain, U. S. A.

UNDER the law passed by Congress the Thirty-first United States Infantry was being organized at the Presidio of San Francisco. In the old camp so familiar to the thousands of young Americans who have been to "the islands" to help subdue the "Little Brown Brother."

My company had nearly reached its complement of 150 men, being but two short of that number, when the order came for us to sail in 10 days on the transport America. We, the officers, were assembled in the Adjutant's tent, when he remarked: "Carson, two men enlisted this morning, and as you are shy, I sent them to your outfit. Guess the First Sergeant has quit. Guess the First Sergeant has quit. Guess the First Sergeant has quit."

"I forgot all about my strange-appearing recruits until we had been a week at sea, when the Sergeant, who had been the morning report, said: 'Captain, these two boys from the Philippines are Americans. They're some kind of heathen. Seems they were at the World's Fair and been peddling rugs ever since. Got broke, I guess, and then took on.'"

Suspected a Poker Game.

THAT evening, when inspecting the men's quarters for the night, I found my company gathered on the mess deck intensely watching someone in the center of the throng. Suspecting the forbidden poker game, I crowded in and found Jones, a fine type of a man, older, devoutly crossing himself while examining in his other hand a silver dollar, which, when Thomas Jones closed his fingers for him, was found, on opening the hand again, to be a copper cent. McGuire dropped the cent, broke from the crowd muttering: "Howdy Mother! They're crooked somehow, all right, all right."

Nothing could induce McGuire to re-enter the crowd, and the next day, with the old soldier's privilege, he approached me. "Captain, them two recruits is crooked somehow, sir. Why? That Tom Jones is a write in the air and his brother is a write in the air and the other end of the pig. 'Seen 'em do it meself, sir.'"

"Examining the Jones brothers to be sure with the old man, I ordered the sergeant to stop it for the sake of peace and discipline in the company. Three months later my company and the 31st Infantry were stationed at Dai Nang, a large town on the lonely east coast of Luzon, operating against the forces of Lieutenant-Colonel Segovia. Aguinaldo's army, who made his headquarters in the village of Paracale, 30 miles up the coast, strongly entrenched behind an impassable river, an old Major, in command, energetically anxious to make a name for himself and his new regiment, kept small armies out constantly to clean up the wilderness country before moving on to a stronghold at Paracale. One Saturday morning, Lieut. Hargood, with 40 of my company, including Thomas and McGuire, appeared in the dusk. Saluting, the sergeant reported: "Captain, that William Jones is a write in the air with the air with a message. Says that with Lieut. Hargood, is surrounded in the church at Dai Nang and must have help. Says his other is a write in the air, sir."

Call for Help.

HARGOOD would have returned by Sunday night, and when the detachment was still out Monday evening, Max Goole came over to my quarters to talk over the matter. Hargood had the Major seated on my veranda, when the First Sergeant and McGuire appeared in the dusk. Saluting, the sergeant reported: "Captain, that William Jones is a write in the air with the air with a message. Says that with Lieut. Hargood, is surrounded in the church at Dai Nang and must have help. Says his other is a write in the air, sir."

"Yes, sir," broke in McGuire, "same as I did on the transport as I was a tell, the Captain, sir." The Major grunted out something out "foot soldiers' talk," but made no objection to my order to have Jones brought to my house at once. On arrival, continued, the sergeant had declared, the boys and the detachment to be in danger, but avoided questions touching on his brother's blitty to transmit thought through the miles of space intervening between them. "Well," said the Major, "I don't believe a word of it, Carson, but they've seen out too long, and you had better let your company, what's left of it, Ave Sauborn here with me, and go to there right away. Take the doctor, a lot of ammunition and three day's rations on the pack ponies. If you bump to any that Segovia outfit, shoot 'em up and find Hargood, sure."

The Use of Bisurated agnes'a for Stomach Troubles

In these days of almost universal digestion, dyspepsia and other stomach trouble the recent announcement of a great specialist that pure bisurated agnes'a is an almost infallible remedy for nearly all forms of stomach trouble, will come as a welcome surprise to all sufferers. A teaspoon in a little water immediately after eating, or whenever pain is felt, neutralizes the excess acid, and instantly stops the fermentation and pain. Those who use bisurated agnes'a regularly for a week or two usually find that the trouble has entirely disappeared, that normal digestion is completely restored.—ADV.

Hargood Reported Shot.

NOTICED a feeling of uneasiness among the men just before we started, and was told that Jones had another message from his brother that Lieut. Hargood was wounded and three men killed. I confess I was nervous myself, but walked up and down the long column of two, the only practical formation on the narrow trail, to try to quiet the men.

When we halted at the end of the first hour, someone called me, and I found William Jones, flat on his back, writing with his forefinger in the air. By this time my skepticism had disappeared. "What do you know, Jones? Answer me," I commanded. "Two more dead and two hit, sir," he replied. "We started forward, and so throughout the night the uncanny news came to us, sometimes at the halt, and sometimes while marching. At daylight we had reached the river, 400 yards beyond the Labau Church, a gloomy pile of stone, appeared through the early light. Leaving the doctor with 20 men and the pack train behind a hill to the rear, I formed a line of skirmishers, the men stripped to rifle, belt and canteen, prepared to ford the river. Not a shot had we heard, which increased our feeling of awe. Had we come on a wild goose chase, misled by the foolish antics of a possibly crazy man? Or, on the other hand, were our men all dead in the church, their bodies mutilated? I almost prayed for something to happen to relieve the tension. Just as we reached the middle of the shallow river it came.

A volley from many loud-mouthed Remingtons on the opposite bank, and a man near me yelled: "Struck something, by God."

Bill Jones Is Killed.

TURNED to see a man fall into the water, and hear a squad leader call, "Bill Jones gone. Got it in the head." We pushed on with a yell such as none but American soldiers can give, only to be stopped at the top of the bank by a volley from a line of Remingtons, improvised into a battery across the end of the street at the head of which the side of the church faced. A few rounds and that line broke and ran, pursued by two of our sections while with the other two I doubled back to surround the church, fearing a trap. On the belfry, however, appeared the round face of Patsy Bourke. "A high bugler!"

"Got any now belly? We heard them"

Have You "Got It In" for Love? Want to Kill It?

Here Are 25 Ways to Do It!

By Sophie Irene Loeb.

"Yet each man kills the thing he loves. By each let this be heard: Some do it with a bitter look, Some with a flattering word, The coward does it with a kiss, The brave man with a sword."

THESE famous words by a famous poet were strongly exemplified by a woman who wept in court the other day and told how slowly but surely her husband had killed the love she had for him. There was no other man in the case and the husband did not want to part from the woman, having awakened to the truth that, though he had been attracted by the glimmer of love, she had become a complete fiction, the pearl of great price was really at his own hearthstone.

But he had killed the thing he loved while he was the love of this woman. He had lost her.

There are hundreds of ways in which a man kills the thing he loves. Some of them are:

By the heavy manner after marriage that was the glossy manner before.

By the promises easily made, but never kept.

By playing the devil at home and the angel outside.

By rushing out of the house and forgetting the good-by kiss.

By forgetting to admire the dress that she has put on for his special benefit.

By sneering at her singing or deprecating her other talents.

By quarreling before her children.

By praising other women's charms at her expense.

By making her feel that she is merely a domestic drudge.

By neglecting to write to her while he is away.

By flatterer her to smooth over a grievance.

By kissing her only to please her.

By borrowing money from her and not paying her back.

By treating her as a feather-brain and making her feel that he knows it all.

By forgetting her birthday or the wedding anniversary.

By "kicking off steam" at home when things go wrong at the office.

By calling her a coward because she is afraid of a mouse.

By being irritated with the childish ways that pleased him when she was his fiancée.

By trying to regulate every detail of her life.

By withholding the little courtesies to her that he shows to other women.

By having her account for every penny that he gives her.

By regarding her only as the mother

So Near—and Yet, So Far

Billy Pig Is Ill

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

PART III.

WHEN Mrs. Pig told Billy Goat

that he was ill, Billy Goat was not at all surprised.

"Thank you, Mrs. Pig, for your thoughtfulness. I am feeling a little under the weather this morning, and I am sure this will help me. I never tasted finer pease and now that you know how to feed your son, I am sure,

with your fine cooking, he will be strong and well. You make the nicest things I ever tasted."

Mrs. Pig smiled with pleasure at this compliment and hurried out of the room to get another bowl for Billy Pig.

"You will spoil everything if you don't keep quiet," said Billy Pig to Billy Pig. "Here I am trying to get you all the nice things you want, and you find fault because I take a little taste myself, and nearly give away what we are doing."

Billy Pig did not reply, as his mother came in just then, with a big bowl filled with cream and stewed pease.

"Here are cakes and some cookies and a dish of stewed pease for you to take home, doctor," said Mrs. Pig.

"You seem to like my cooking so well."

"THANK you, Mrs. Pig, a thousand times," said Billy Goat, taking the package and putting it in his bag.

And now I think I can safely leave

Billy Pig to your good care. Feed him well with the right kind of food, and you will have a healthy boy. Good day, Mrs. Pig. Good day, Billy Pig.

Your mother is a fine cook."

Billy Pig ate until his mother's cake

CROP REPORTS A FACTOR IN CHICAGO PIT

ST. LOUIS MONEY MARKET

It will be very interesting for local money lenders and borrowers to watch the development of the money market from now on, with the new method of banking coming. The inauguration of the new system will undoubtedly mean the ending of the money condition, which will not only be welcomed by business men, but by some of the smaller banking communities as well. Money rates in St. Louis continue to hold around 6 percent to 7 per cent, but the outlook for the money market, as stated above, is very encouraging. The quotations on commercial paper still continue to offer attractive rates, and until some of the high-grade paper is

Wet Weather in Argentina Causes Buying of Wheat—Corn Is Steady.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Higher cables had a strengthening effect to day on wheat. The wet harvest in Argentina, and against the bears and so also did signs of a recovery in the shipping market on an all-rail basis from here to the seaboard. Besides, the Northwest was predicting smaller receipts and there were Kansas concerns of dry weather. After opening 14c to 14 1/2c up, the market declined slightly above last night's level. The wheat market rather than the handling of the new crop made the corn market easy. Strength of the wheat market, however, was not prices. The opening, which varied between 14c and 14 1/2c, was followed by a decline to 14c, and then a recovery to 14 1/2c. The market was steady for the remainder of the day.

FURS—Receipts are very light, and are mostly summer furs. Mail collections that are selling at low prices; buyers are bidding. The market is very active, and the price is still too early, owing to the unprecedented conditions that are confronting the trade. European markets are not yet open for furs, therefore, to get any accurate idea of the market, one must rely on the cables, which are approximate average prices for arrival in New York.

Traders in oats seemed disposed to watch other grains. There was but little pressure to sell and the market kept relatively firm.

Lower prices for hogs carried down provisions. Many commission houses took to the bear side.

The Jarr Family

By ROY L. MCCARDELL.

Mr. Jarr Decides to Bring Mrs. Jarr Home.

"If any of the gals (and they are slapping fine gals) want to sit on my lap," said Mr. Jarr. Parred Smunk, the retired Government Printer and ex-Shylock, or unofficial money lender, "I'm willing."

The Misses Cackleberry faltered. Leather faced old Mr. Smunk was most presumptuous, was their thought. Suppose he was a married man?
"Oh, but we can all be seated if we crowd a little," said Mrs. Blodger. "Gladly, you sit out in a front seat beside your step-paw, who will run the car. And Amelia Fodder—I just can't think of you as Mrs. Smunk, a veteran's widow—you can sit beside your brother-in-law. And Irene and Mrs. Jarr can take the little seats."

Thus did they arrange themselves in the 20-horsepower Klassky Kar Mr. Dredgingham had left as a gift auto at the Blodger-Cackleberry door at dawn the day before.

Mr. Jared Smunk appraised every residence or farm they passed, according to the mortgage he thought was on it. He also seemed to specialize on how many hens were under the barns they passed and told whether women in dooryards wore button or lace shoes and how much they weighed. He volunteered to back his estimate with cash bets in minor sums of 10 cents and a quarter if Mr. Blodger would stop the machine and let him "left" the females.

He also astounded Mrs. Jarr by taking a newspaper from his pocket and reading it upside down.
"I got to read upside down," Mr. Jared Smunk explained. "I got so used to reading the type upside down in the forms and in my stock (for we didn't have hootypes in my days on the Congressional Record), and I could not get more than an hour than any other comp. working for the Government; so just naturally I got so I see things best upside down" and on the car sped.

Returning to Mr. Jarr at home it must have been Mr. Bernard Blodger who initiated Mrs. Jarr into the use of a special delivery stamp. The ladies, bless their hearts, will pay $30 and more for a hat; they will go to the financial limit in wearing apparel and then economize on luncheons that they have to pay for themselves and on postage stamps.

If the fair sex can get a letter through the postoffice for 3 cents that should have paid 4—every letter isn't weighed—or if they can save 20 cents on a luncheon, they imagine they have performed prodigies of economies that entitle them to a $40 set of furs, when they know $40 is all they had to spare for the skin coverings of deceased animals that they wear to the Humane Society meetings.

Anyway, Mr. Jarr was awakened up at midnight to receive a special delivery letter that, after most gratifying preliminary endearments, requested him to have Mrs. Rangle select certain articles of apparel from Mrs. Jarr's wardrobe—it took her a page to describe the various places she might have hidden the key—and to send it by express to her.
"Be sure it's Mrs. Rangle," Mrs. Jarr cautioned. "Don't let on to Clara Mudridge—she was then—was glad to have me give her some of my old things, but now she's got clothes as fine, compared to mine, as my clothes may seem to Mrs. Rangle. So let Mrs. Rangle pick for you. She'll know what to send me, being a woman, and she'll think my poor little duds are quite fine."

Mrs. Jarr further explained how anxious she was to get home, but that she had promised Mr. and Mrs. Blodger and the Cackleberry girls that she would go with them on a little trip.

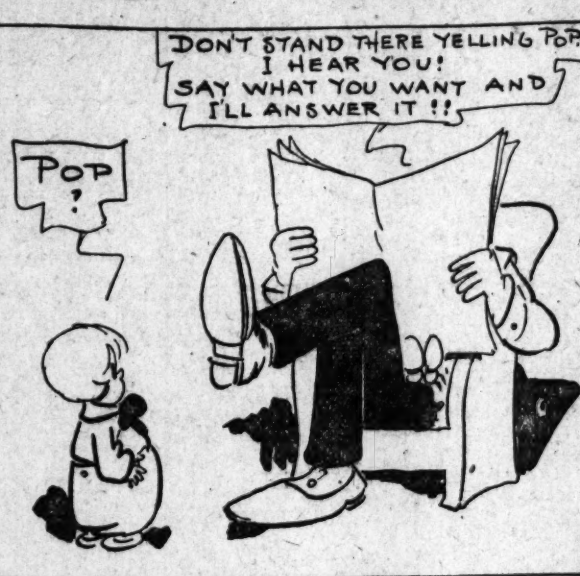

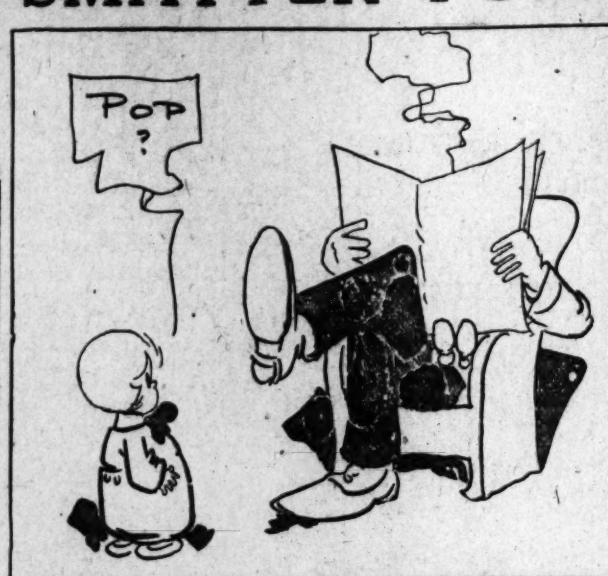

While he was still up and awake Mr. Jarr determined to gain time by looking for the key of Mrs. Jarr's wardrobe. Mr. Jarr had the Sherlock Holmes deductions to go by—the first was that a woman never hides a key outside of the room the key is native to; and the second deduction previous experience dictated was that a key to a clothes closet is never hidden in any of the places a woman thinks she hid it. In fact, Mr. Jarr had looked everywhere and had opened the closet door by the simple expedient of pulling out the hinge bolts—a mystery unfathomable to women—before he thought of looking for the key being in a stocking full of combings in the bottom chiffonier drawer.

Mrs. Rangle gave Mr. Rangle a hurried and scanty breakfast and came over at an early hour, on summons, accompanied by little Johnny and little Mary Rangle and the Rangle baby and old Mrs. Dusenberry as chaperons.

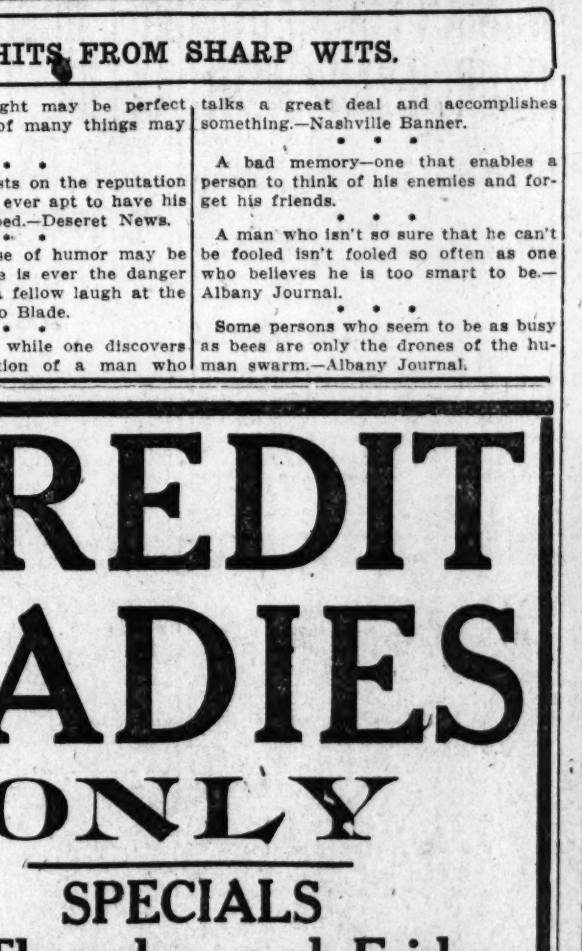

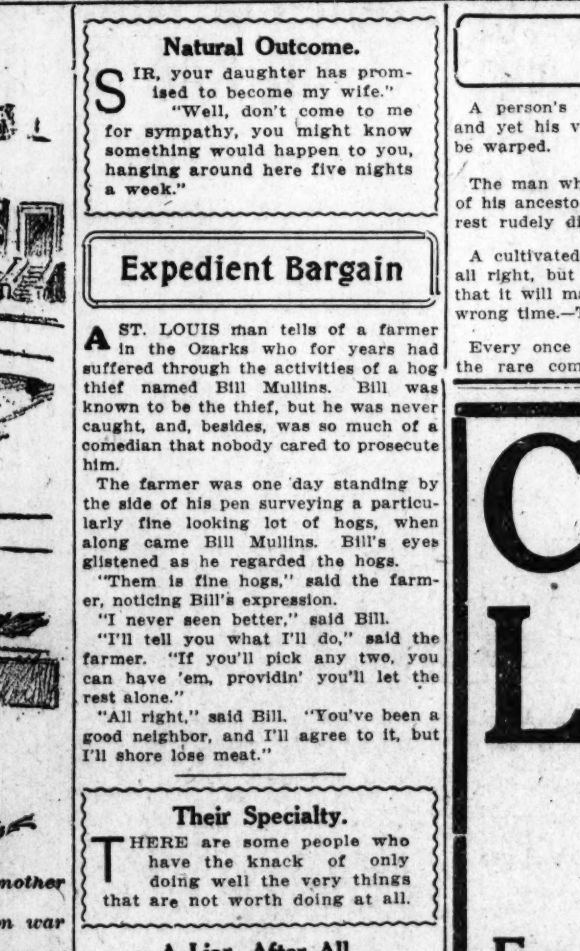

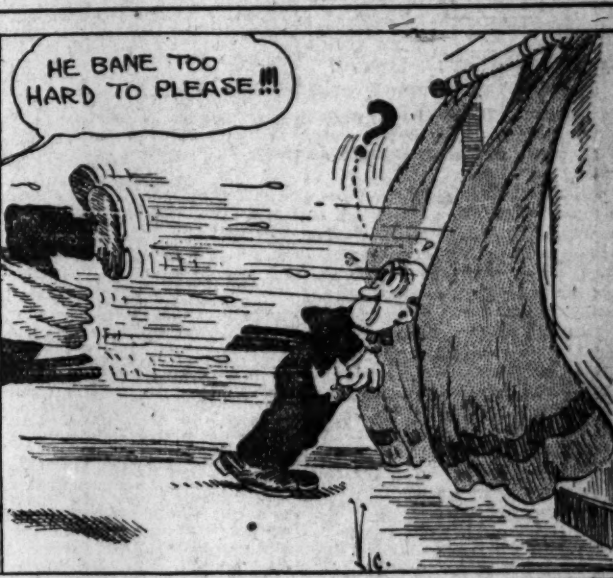

"Mrs. Jarr! I want her short walking skirt and her common sense ties and her best silk stockings," said Mrs. Rangle. "And she'll want—Mrs. Dusenberry, the baby is yawning—a pin—Johnny, don't lean so far out the front window—Mary, you mustn't spill Mrs. Jarr's powder—something to wear for the evening—her black panne velvet if she's with card-playing people, and her blue chambray evening dress if it's a dancing crowd—better take both."

"She's only wearing an auto bonnet, and she'll have to have her small toque to travel back in, and she'll want one of the chic French hats she's just trimmed. And she'll have to have one of her best hats; they may go out in the evening. How can we send them all by express? Johnny, leave Mr. Jarr's silk hat alone! Take it off! It will make your ears grow crooked! Mary, don't touch the cold cream, and leave the perfume alone or I will whip you! And we mustn't forget her long black gloves and her long white gloves and her short tan gloves and short black gloves to wear back in the train. How shall we ever get her hats to her by express?"
"We won't send them by express,"

Little Boy Weak and Sickly

Mother Tells How Her Little Son Was Made a Strong, Healthy Boy by Vinol After a Severe Sickness.

"About five years ago my little boy, then seven years old, was very ill with gastritis, then he contracted measles from the other children, pneumonia soon followed, and there seemed no hope of saving his life. However, we fought off the disease and he recovered, but was in a very weak and delicate condition. The doctor prescribed cod liver oil, but his little stomach swelled up like a drum, and the doctor said there was no cure for him. I decided to try Vinol, as I had used it myself with splendid results, and it seemed to agree with him. That blessed condition soon disappeared, and now he is a strong, healthy boy, thanks to Vinol."—MRS. THOMAS FITZGERALD, 1090 Park Av., New York City.

In all cases where the healing, curative, tissue building influence of cod liver oil, or the strength-creating, blood-making properties of tonic iron are needed, Vinol gives immediate benefit, for it is easily assimilated and acceptable to the weakest stomach, because it contains no oil or grease, and tastes delicious.

As Good Excuse as Any.

"Now, it don't hurt, but me jaw is all swelled up and me mother told me not to play football—she'll gimme the dickens."

"Aw, if she notices it tell her ya got it pronouncin' them car names."

Mr. Jarr. "If Mrs. Dusenberry will help Gertrude" (Gertrude was sulkily regarding Mrs. Rangle as a privileged interloper, "look after the children I'll take the things to Mrs. Jarr.")

"Goodness gracious! Ain't the men all alike?" cried Mrs. Rangle. "They don't trust their wives out of their sight!"

But Mr. Jarr was determined he was going to have Mrs. Jarr home if he had to be a milliner's delivery boy to bring her back.

Skeptic is the name given to a man who is unable to form convictions and is unwilling to believe that anyone else can form them and have them right.

Natural Outcome.

SIR, your daughter has promised to become my wife.

"Well, don't come to me for sympathy, you might know something would happen to you, hanging around here five nights a week."

Expedient Bargain

A ST. LOUIS man tells of a farmer in the Ozarks who for years had suffered through the activities of a hog thief named Bill Mullins. Bill was known to be the thief, but he was never caught, and, besides, was so much of a comedian that nobody cared to prosecute him.

The farmer was one day standing by the side of his pen surveying a particularly fine looking lot of hogs, when along came Bill Mullins. Bill's eyes glistened as he regarded the hogs.

"There is fine hogs," said the farmer, noticing Bill's expression.

"I never seen better," said Bill.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," said the farmer. "If you'll pick any two, you can have 'em, providin' you'll let the rest alone."

"All right," said Bill. "You've been a good neighbor, and I'll agree to it, but I'll shore lose meat."

Without Exception.

THERE are exceptions to the rule in almost everything except the case of the sort of dignity that sticks out so blatantly you know it isn't real.

Native to Cats.

MRS. PESTER: Our cat is having another fit. Do you suppose she has epilepsy?

Mr. Pester: Certainly not. Cats don't have epilepsy. They have cataplexy.

End of the Argument

A RATHER pompous member of Congress from the West recently attended an agricultural show in Virginia. He arrived late and found himself on the outskirts of a big crowd.

Being anxious to obtain a good view for himself and wife, and presuming that he was well known to the spectators, he tapped a burly native on the shoulder and preposterously demanded, "Make way there."

"Garn, who are ye pushin'?" was the unexpected response.

"Do you know who I am, sir?" demanded the indignant M.C. "I am a representative of the people."

"Huh," grunted the native, as he stood unmoved, "but we're the durned people themselves."
